Consider Cutting Price
Set for Fire Station
Number 5.

First indication that the new $2,100,000 Atlanta postoffice will be located in the block bounded by Spring, Forsyth and Gannett streets and Trinity avenue, was given Monday when Mayor J. N. Bagdikian called a special meeting of city council for noon today with a view of slashing from $2,500 to $5,000 from the price which the city quoted on that part of the tract now occupied by fire station No. 5.

The entire block, which the government wishes to acquire, was quoted at a figure of $480,170, but only $450,000 has been set up for acquisition of the tract from the $2,100,000 provided for the entire project.

Every one of the property owners will be asked to make a cut in the price as quoted in order that the tract may be offered at once, thus expediting the actual start on the improvement, those interested informed the mayor Monday in a conference.

Councilman William E. Saunders, of the 12th ward, and chairman of the board of firemasters, announced that a majority of the board favors a $2,500 slash in the price of $40,000 quoted by the city for the firehouse site.

Officials declared that the tract in question, bounded by Gannett, Spring, Forsyth and Trinity avenues, is the only one which could be offered at the figure which federal officials insist is the maximum amount which can be expended for land purchases.

The tract is located near the territorial station and would offer every facility for easy handling of mail, and could be connected with compressed air tubes with Candler field, thus dispatching and receiving air mail in less than three minutes from the time it was placed in the chute.

The site was offered to the government by the Trust Company of Georgia, of which Thomas M. Glenn is president. The dimensions are 424x421x522x134 feet on Spring street.

If city officials and private owners slash the price to come within the $450,000 figure, it was indicated that the government would accept the site and work could be started. If not, an additional appropriation at once must be set up and this could not be done before the congress session this fall. This would delay the project several months.

NOTICE
To Movietest Contestants

All answers submitted to the tie-breaking cartoons in The Movietest are now being carefully checked.

In addition, all qualifying contract subscriptions are being investigated in an effort to bring about prompt acceptance or rejection of all contract subscriptions submitted.

Obviously, no announcement of the result of the contest can be published until the work of verifying contract subscriptions has been accomplished, in view of the fact that any subscription rejected might possibly disqualify a set of answers, thus changing the standing of the contestant as regards the number of correct answers submitted.

It now appears that the result of the contest cannot possibly be announced before June 1 or June 2.

The Constitution is making all possible speed in arriving at the result of the contest, consistent with accuracy in checking the answers and careful attention to verifying subscriptions necessary to qualify such answers.

TO DENY REPORT

St. Louis, May 27.—(United Press.)—Washington should be named "The Windy City," Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt said tonight, when asked to comment on the report that she planned to resign.

She refused to discuss the matter, or to deny the report.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
Washington, May 27.—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant United States attorney-general and storm center of the Hoover administration, is planning to resign her post at an early date for the purpose of entering private law practice.

Although her resignation has not yet been submitted, President Hoover has been notified of her plans and is understood to have started his search for Mrs. Willebrandt's successor.

Mrs. Willebrandt herself was away from Washington and could not be reached for comment but her close friends and associates were authority for the statement that she has been considering retiring from public office for some time. She is now en route to Waco, Texas, where she will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree Wednesday and is not expected back in Washington until June 6.

Shortly after she returns she is expected to formally notify Attorney General Mitchell of her intention to resign.

It is regarded as significant that associates of the woman assistant attorney-general in her office in the department of justice freely discussed her reported plans for resigning. While the reports were not officially confirmed, it was stated that she had been anxious to retire ever since the close of the recent presidential campaign which found her a militant crusader for the cause of prohibition and the republican ticket.

Told Hoover of Plans.
The statement is made by her close friends that shortly after the election she saw Mr. Hoover in California and informed him of her plans to retire with the beginning of his administration. The same source of information has it that she was personally requested to stay on by the president-elect. Later, just after taking office, Mr. Hoover is said to have discussed the subject with her again, renewing his insistence that she remain at the department in charge of prohibition prosecutions, the work of which she has been doing since the late Hoover's death.

State's Attorney Says

Who Betrayed Him.

Chicago, Ill., May 27.—(AP)—Robert Elliott Burns, Chicago publisher, will be prosecuted for bigamy if he is not returned to the Georgia chain gang from which he escaped seven years ago, Assistant States Attorney Q. J. Chett told Judge Joseph David today during a habeas corpus hearing.

Chett made the charge of bigamy after Judge David had continued the hearing until next Monday to await action by Governor Louis L. Emerson, before whom an extradition hearing is set for Wednesday.

It is charged that Burns married Miss Jean McDonald in Chicago in 1922 and did not obtain a divorce before marrying his present wife.

Police said Burns was identified as former employee by Fred Person, president of the Person Construction Company here. Person said that Burns, under the name of Edward J. O'Brien, disappeared following disclosure of $700 discrepancy in his accounts.

Washington, May 27.—(AP)—In an atmosphere electrified with charges of "trading," partisan debate and resuscitated campaign arguments, the house approved another score of committee amendments to the tariff bill today and paved the way for a final vote late tomorrow.

The session, lasting more than six hours, was the stormiest of any since the republican-framed measure was taken up three weeks ago, and oft of it emerged an amendment, approved by a vote of 196 to 90, placing a duty of 10 per cent on hides, rates ranging from 12 1/2 to 30 per cent on leather, and a levy of 20 per cent on boots and shoes.

All of these commodities have been on the free list for years and were retained in that category in the present bill as first reported. Urgent demands for duties, however, led to reconsideration and the committee conceded to members from the cattle raising and New York and New England shoe manufacturing states.

An attempt by Representative Hudspeth, democrat, Texas, to make the hide duty 20 per cent was rejected by a vote of 190 to 58.

Of the other amendments approved, the ways and means committee was victorious in every instance and not one change was effected by any member outside the committee.

Flaxseed Duty Raised.
The most important amendments adopted besides the hide, leather and shoe proposals, would provide an increase in the duty on flaxseed from 50 to 65 cents a bushel, a rate of $10 a ton on broom corn, rice straw and fiber, now on the free list; an increase in the duty on a pound in the rates of $2.10 on unstemmed and $2.75 on stemmed wrapper tobacco, and a boost of one-quarter of a cent in the rate of 1 3/4 cents a pound on onions.

By changing the tobacco rates, the committee changed the only schedule in the tariff law which will be first reported later undisturbed.

A dozen or more amendments remain to be acted upon tomorrow before all are voted on in bloc just prior to a final vote.

A motion to recommit the measure will be made before the vote on passage is taken, Representative Garner, of Texas, the democratic leader, will offer the motion to send the measure back to the ways and means committee for instructions to amend it in three important particulars.

Wants Body Abolished.
He will seek to abolish the present tariff commission, to repeal the flexible tariff law which he introduced in 1913, and to provide for a fact-finding board of four members to be appointed by the speaker of the house and vice president and made solely responsible to congress.

He would restore the power which the bill takes away from the customs courts and gives to the secretary of the treasury to review valuations in cases of appeals from appraisements.

His motion also will provide that the committee amend the bill by "adjusting rates in all schedules so that the duties shall not exceed the actual value and origin of the goods."

Explaining this change, Garner said some of the rates in the bill were too low and some too high and that the proposal was in line with the democratic platform pledges.

Garner is not sanguine over the prospects for his motion to carry, but he expects the senate to restore the power to congress which it delegated to the president in the Fordney-McCumber act of 1922.

SOVIET GENERAL
SENT TO CRUSH
BOKHARA REVOLT

London, May 27.—(AP)—A Riga dispatch to the Daily Mail today said a revolt had broken out in Bokhara, which is that part of Russian Turkestan which borders Afghanistan, and that general Budenny, inspector of soviet cavalry, had been sent to crush it.

The soviet general was said to have left Moscow by airplane to reach the affected area. Red outposts were said to have met with serious defeats during the past month, especially near the Afghan border.

The trouble apparently reached its active stage after political police at Tashkent discovered a letter in which Ali Khan, former amir of Jalalabad, urged the Bokharans to rise against Moscow. Political hostages friendly to the amir were reported to have been executed as a result of the summary action leading to the revolt.

Bokhara is peopled largely by nomadic tribes. The soviet governments recently have attempted to increase cotton growing and other forms of agriculture there, and a number of extensive irrigation projects have been projected in the general area.

TEN COAL MINERS
BELIEVED TRAPPED
NEAR BIRMINGHAM

Birmingham, Ala., May 27.—(AP)—Ten men were believed trapped in the new mine of the Toland Connellville Coal Corporation in an explosion of explosives and origin early tonight.

J. L. Davidson, vice president of the corporation, said that about a dozen men were working in the mine when the explosion occurred.

He said that the mine was recently opened and that a shift larger than that believed trapped, had halted work for the day at 3:30 p. m. Monday. The men were at work cleaning the mine for the weekly inspection.

F. E. Cash, head of the Federal Bureau of Mines in Birmingham, and W. B. Hillhouse, state inspector of mines, hastily organized a rescue party to go to the aid of those who may be imprisoned.

LAW ENFORCEMENT
BODY TO ORGANIZETen Members of Hoover
Commission Assemble for Meeting in Cabinet Rooms.

Washington, May 27.—(AP)—Members of President Hoover's law enforcement commission were gathering here tonight for the first and organization meeting to be held tomorrow in the cabinet room at the executive offices.

George W. Wickersham, chairman of the commission, who has been a guest at the White House since Sunday, will preside and the expectation is that each of the other 10 members will be present for the first discussion of the commission's work.

The president will have the 10 men and one woman as luncheon guests at the White House and is expected to meet with them later in the cabinet chamber to express his views as to the scope of the work to be undertaken.

Mr. Hoover has said he regards the problem of lawlessness in the United States as the foremost problem before his administration. Among his ideas of how it is to be met is one for reorganization of the judicial and law enforcement machinery, a gigantic task within itself and one which will require months of investigation and study.

This particular phase of the commission's work is likely to be submerged in the popular interest. At least, by the inquiry which will be made in prohibition law enforcement and the recommendations which the commission is expected to make as a result of its study of this highly controversial question.

Others in the party said that Hankins blazed away with his shotgun at the dirigible, which was 1,500 feet up.

After firing once or twice he said jokingly that if the next shot didn't bring her down he'd try a one ounce ball, known locally as a "pumpkin shot."

Lieutenant Commander Wiley testified that the Los Angeles frequently had holes in her gas bag after crashing trips but it was never known what caused the holes.

"I just felt good and wanted a ride and so I fired my gun three times—merely into the air, mind you," testified Hankins.

The cut-up also said that he waved his hat, shouted, screamed, jumped up and down waving the gun and his arms and performed other antics as the huge vessel passed slowly overhead.

"I hoped they would come down and take us all up for a ride," said Hankins.

Hankins denied firing a "pumpkin shot" at the dirigible or of taking aim. He said his gun was charged with buckshot.

"This is the last scrap I'll ever get in," vowed Hankins audibly as he left the courtroom, a free man after the various juries had pondered more than an hour.

According to police, a "scrap" about two years ago cost him $200 when he was fined on a charge of determining the Flatbrook valley dam, comprising a private trout lake into a stream and spoiling the fishing for club members.

Carpenter Freed of Attack
On U. S. Navy With Shotgun

VILLAGE CUT-UP FIRED ON DIRIGIBLE

Newton, N. J., May 27.—(United Press.)—Merton Hankins, a Layton, N. J., carpenter with a locally famous penchant for getting into "scrapes," was acquitted today of the "suspicious" charge of attacking the United States navy with a shotgun.

He was also acquitted of the hardly less sizeable accusations of assault with intent to kill on Lieutenant Commander H. V. Wiley of the U. S. navy dirigible Los Angeles and assault with intent to kill the 41 members of the crew.

For a while he looked black for Hankins. He had a separate jury, composed of men and women of the Sussex county countryside, for each of the three charges and he was plainly intimidated when he took the witness stand to give the explanation that he was just "cutting up."

The charges were the outcome of an incident on September 6, 1928, when Hankins was making "whoopie" with some friends and the dirigible Los Angeles was beating its way to its hangar from a training cruise through a fog.

Hankins and the four other young men fired of shooting at a target in a large yard and Hankins suggested that they go deer hunting. The party piled noisily into an automobile and headed for the woods. Just as they reached the edge of a hill they sighted the Los Angeles, returning to Lakehurst from Lake George, New York.

Others in the party said that Hankins blazed away with his shotgun at the dirigible, which was 1,500 feet up.

After firing once or twice he said jokingly that if the next shot didn't bring her down he'd try a one ounce ball, known locally as a "pumpkin shot."

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. D. W. McDonald, Houston, Tex., and Miss Lucile Ribble, Atlanta; two sons, Keith T. Ribble, Houston, and G. W. Jr., with whom his father lived at 743 Park drive, N. E.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by H. M. Patterson & Son.

FORMAL NOTICEBride and Groom Unat-

Ceremony.

Englewood, N. J., May 27.—(AP)—The long-headed wedding of Miss Anne Spencer Morrow and Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh materialized unexpectedly today in a simple ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Ambassador and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow.

The ceremony was performed in the drawing room of the Morrow home in the presence of only seven guests, all members of the two families.

The bride, dressed in simple white chiffon, carried a bouquet of blue larkspur picked by the bridegroom in the Morrow garden. There were no bridesmaids, no best man, no music—none of the embellishment which would have gone even with a moderately simple public wedding.

Drive Past Reporters.
After the ceremony, the colonel and his bride drove away in an automobile, and the small army of newspapermen who had been standing guard at the gates for so long thought it was just another afternoon drive. They were unaware of the wedding until their secretary, more than two hours later.

No details of the couple's honeymoon plans were revealed, but reports from Roosevelt Field, N. Y., said Lindbergh had ordered his plane serviced for a take-off tomorrow morning.

Arrangements for the nuptials had been revised so that a change in ministers was necessary. Ambassador Morrow had wanted Dr. Carl Elmore, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, to officiate, but when he sought the minister today he discovered that Dr. Elmore was in attendance for an official dedication.

So he called in his old friend, Dr. William Adams Brown, of Union Theological seminary, New York.

Lindbergh wore the same dark blue business suit in which he had appeared on all of his visits to Englewood.

The only persons present besides the bride couple and the clergyman were Ambassador and Mrs. Morrow, their daughters, Elizabeth and Constance, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of the flyer, and General and Mrs. Jay Johnson Morrow, brother and sister-in-law of the ambassador.

Lindbergh and his bride left the estate at 4:30 p. m. General Morrow and Dr. Brown two hours later and the ambassador motored to the home of his brother, who also resides in Englewood.

So far as could be learned the cold.

POCKET VETO UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

Ruling Ends Dispute on Muscle Shoals and Many Bills.

Washington, May 27.—(AP)—The validity of pocket vetoes by the president was upheld in a unanimous decision handed down today by the supreme court, regardless of whether the legislation in question was sent to the White House in the closing days of a session which was not the final session of a congress.

The court, in an opinion summarized by Justice Sanford, construed the word "adjournment" in the constitutional provision relating to vetoes as meaning the end of any congressional session as well as of a congress. It held that congress, before ending a session, must give the president the ten days granted him by the constitution to act on bills passed or else assume responsibility for the failure of those on which he does not act.

The case in which the decision was rendered involved the Okanogan and other Indian tribes in Washington, which had failed in an effort to have the court of claims hold that a pocket veto had not killed a bill relating to claims held by them.

Added importance had been attached to it, however, in view of other legislation which had been accorded pocket vetoes, including the Norris resolution for government operation of the Muscle Shoals project in Alabama.

Today's ruling was contrary to the views of the house judiciary committee, which was heard in the oral argument through Representative Summers of Texas, one of its members. Senator Norris, chairman of the senate judiciary committee, and a number of other congressmen took the view that the constitution only killed those bills on which the president had failed to act at the close of the last session of each congress, and had no effect on bills in the hands of the president when other sessions ended.

Practice of Presidents.
For many years it has been the practice of presidents, supported by the opinions of their attorney generals, to treat as dead the bills in their hands remaining unacted upon at the close of each session of congress.

Justice Sanford, in the opinion, reviewed historically the controversy over pocket vetoes and emphasized the failure during a long period of anyone to test in the courts the validity of the construction by various presidents. He concluded that congress had acquiesced in the practice.

He pointed out that the constitution provided for government operation of the Muscle Shoals project in Alabama.

Today's ruling was specific which required the president to return measures to congress with his reasons for disapproving them, and declared that when congress by ending a session refused to allow him the ten days provided in the constitution for him to consider and act on all bills, it had sealed the fate of those upon which he had not acted when the hour of adjournment arrived.

Rolling on Time.
Congress could not say to the president that he could proceed to take the full ten days, he continued, and then notify some officer of the house or senate of his veto of a bill after congress had ended the session, because his veto could only be sent, the opinion stated, to one of the two houses while it was in session.

Friends of government operation of the Muscle Shoals plant had insisted that the failure of former President Coolidge formally to veto the bill had the effect of making it law without his signature.

Mr. Coolidge received the bill in the closing days of a first session, less than ten days prior to its adjournment, and giving the customary construction to the provision of the constitution "unless the congress by their adjournment prevent its return" to mean an adjournment at the end of any session, took no action whatever on it. The decision today sustained that construction by holding that the word "adjournment" used in the constitution meant the adjournment at the end of any session of congress.

CONGRESS LEADERS TRY TO BREAK DEADLOCK

Plan Advanced To Have Senate Eliminate Debiture From Its Bill.

Washington, May 27.—(AP)—Leaders in congress gave serious consideration today to overcoming the deadlock in the farm relief conference committee over the export debenture plan as a part of agriculture legislation.

There was no immediate reaction from their discussion to indicate that an early agreement would be reached but most of the conferees expressed the opinion that the difficulty would not prove insurmountable.

Conferees "Stick."
The senate members of the conference committee said they would stick squarely by their opinion that the house should agree to give a general discussion to the two farm bills passed separately by the house and senate and report a disagreement on the debenture section. The house members on the other hand said they would decline to negotiate until the senate members agreed to the elimination of the plan.

The committee was not called by Chairman McNary today but indications were that a meeting would be held soon. In the meantime the parliamentary situation is considered to be such that another vote in the senate on the debenture plan seems probable. Leaders who have made a check of the senate membership declared there had been no defection from the debenture roll as it stood when the debenture plan was agreed upon last month.

Senate May Reconsider.
Some leaders are hopeful, however, that if the senate is asked to vote upon the debenture plan again, those who favor it may be effectively shown that the party stalwarts consider the utility of attempting to include debentures in the farm bill. The leaders contend the debenture advocates may be assured of an opportunity to include their proposal in the tariff bill later in the session and may agree to forego their desire to put it into the farm bill in order to enable speedy enactment of agriculture legislation.

SALE OF LUMBER
MILL CONFIRMED AT THOMASVILLE

Thomasville, Ga., May 27.—(Special).—The Frank L. Gibson Realty Company, of Thomasville, today confirms the sale of the big saw mill plant at Greenville, Fla., formerly owned by the Southern Saw Mill Company, of this city, and a timber tract containing between forty and fifty million feet of pine and cypress timber, to the Leaf Lumber & Veneer Works, of Avenel, Miss.

The mill at Greenville is known as the Bailey mill, having been for a while operated by F. L. Bailey, Alabama lumberman. The new owners, says Mr. Gibson, will start active operations June 15, and expect to run the mill to full capacity, which means an output of from forty to fifty thousand feet of lumber daily.

PETRO AND NOKOL IN BIG COMBINE IN HEATING FIELD

An important merger recently announced is that of the Petroleum Heat and Power Company and Nokol, manufacturer of the nationally famous automatic oil heating equipment of that name.

The growth of oil heating in offices and homes, and as replacement for all other forms of building heating, has been remarkable in the past few years. Consequently there is much of significance in the combination of these two large concerns into a company which, in the words of its president, W. C. McFarlane, "bids fair to lead the industry."

PUPIL AND TEACHER FINED WHEN AUTO CRASHES INTO POLE

Fines totaling $36 were paid Monday by B. B. Miller, 31, of 454 Piedmont avenue, and Miss Annie Mae Pruitt, 17, whom Miller was teaching to drive an automobile, as the outcome of reckless charges made against both the pupil and teacher, when the car was driven into a pole after avoiding a crash with a machine. Judge A. W. Calloway found the two guilty of reckless driving and fined Miller $25 and costs, while Miss Pruitt forfeited $11 posted as collateral at the time of arrest.

SCHOOL MEASURES TO BE CONSIDERED BY CHARTER BODY

Consideration of three important papers relating to administration of the Atlanta school system will come before a meeting of the charter revision committee slated for 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, it was announced Monday by Alderman Ed Gilliam, of the twelfth ward, chairman.

Sweeping revision of the school department providing for abolition of the present board of education, appointment of another by city council and abolition of charter provisions now compelling the city council and the mayor to set up at least 20 percent of the revenue of the municipality for school purposes are contained in one of the papers offered by Alderman Claude E. Buchanan, of the eighth ward.

Another measure providing for payment of monthly salaries of $50 to each of the board and another forcing the board to set up teachers salaries at the beginning of the year and preventing diversion of the fund for any purpose are contained in a series of proposals offered by Councilman William E. Saunders, of the twelfth.

POWER COMPANY SHOWS $1,258,028 PROFIT INCREASE

Increase of $1,258,028 in earnings of the Georgia Power Company and subsidiaries was shown in the 1928 profit receipts over that of 1927, according to financial report made public Monday.

A summary of the report showed the net profits of the power company and its subsidiaries for the past year to be $6,634,814 before deduction of federal taxes, compared with $5,376,789 net profits before federal taxes for the year ending December 31, 1927.

JOHN BOYKIN SETS TURNER, DONELSON TRIAL FOR JUNE 6

Trials of R. C. Turner, former city electrician, and Sam Donelson, an electrical contractor, indicted for alleged embezzlement in connection with city electrical projects, Monday was set for June 6 in Fulton superior court, Solicitor-General John A. Boykin announced.

Both Turner and Donelson are at liberty under bond. The two accused men are expected to ask separate trials. In this event, the solicitor-general asserted Monday that he was unable to say which would be put on trial first.

There will be no sessions of the superior court on Thursday and Friday of this week, the judges having agreed to adjourn on account of the annual meeting of the Georgia Bar Association which is scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

PUBLICITY ASSURED FOR SENATE SESSION

Foes of Open Sessions Fail To Obtain Source of News From Mallon.

Washington, May 27.—(United News.)—Victory for publicity of senate executive sessions was virtually assured by the climax today in the Mallon case.

Former foes of open executive sessions in the senate rules committee failed to pry from Paul R. Mallon, chief of the capitol staff of the United News, his source of information for the Lenroot roll call, and then admitted that the ancient secrecy rule must be abandoned.

Failing to get Mallon to reveal his source, the committee decided at an executive session later to act, and to act promptly.

Five minutes after members streamed away from the executive session room where they had quizzed Mallon, in vain, and subsequently held their executive session, the committee chairman, Senator George Moses, republican, New Hampshire, stood up at his place in the senate and asked, by unanimous consent, that all proposals for publicity be referred to his committee, where he promised quick action. He announced the committee would meet and begin work tomorrow.

Advocates of publicity are in the majority in the senate. Some of them feared the coming senate recess might prevent early action and got from Moses an amendment to his unanimous consent agreement requiring a vote for publicity by next Tuesday. The agreement then was adopted.

Reveals Significance. The New Hampshire senator, long a foe of revealed how significant he considers the whole proceeding by telling the senate it would "pass into history as the Mallon case."

The proceeding today was not an "investigation." At the very outset, Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, challenged the authority of the committee to investigate the matter without an order from the senate. Moses then announced that the committee would stand adjourned to meet again tomorrow.

Senators Harrison, Mississippi; Sisson, Virginia, and McKellar, Tennessee, democratic associates of publicity, objected, pointing out that Mallon had been called and should be questioned. Moses put the question to a vote and was overruled. For 45 minutes members quizzed Mallon, their inquiries ranging from those attempts to reveal his source to theoretical questions revolving about newspaper "ethics."

Resignedly, Moses announced to the senate after the session that the inquiry was fruitless.

"I think all members at the meeting of the rules committee will agree that the inquiry was fruitless," he added, "that one of two results will flow from this matter: That press representatives will be barred from the floor of the senate, which has already taken place, or that an amendment to the rules will be adopted, and I am instructed by the committee to ask that all pending resolutions for amendment of the rules relating to secrecy at executive sessions be referred to the rules committee."

Amendments Vary. Proposed rule amendments range from those providing publicity of roll calls and debate to complete publicity. The belief is general that a modification of rules is certain. Senator Jones, Washington, republican whip, author of a publicity resolution, served notice on the senate today he would press vigorously for action. Moses likewise promised action.

The Mallon case, which started it all, has been dropped as the result of today's futile committee session.

The hearing today was the center of interest at the capitol, but a large crowd which had gathered early was unable to get in to watch the proceedings because the inquiry was held in the small council room of the rules committee. There was hardly enough room for the large number of newspaper correspondents who gathered to write the story.

OFFICERS INDICTED FOR KILLING BOY IN SUSPECTED CAR

Abingdon, Va., May 27.—(AP)—The Washington county grand jury late today indicted James McReynolds, Abingdon policeman, and James Crowe and J. H. Worley, deputy sheriffs, on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of J. W. Kendrick, 17, Emory and Henry college student, near here May 6.

Kendrick, an occupant of an automobile with two other young men, was fatally wounded from shots fired by the officers at the car, which they said they suspected of carrying liquor. The officers said after the shooting that they fired only "at the tires" of the machine after its occupants failed to heed an order to stop. Surviving occupants of the car denied that they were ordered to halt.

The officers are to go on trial next Monday.

PROHIBITION ACTIVITIES FOR TEN MONTHS SHOWN BY DORAN

Washington, May 27.—(AP)—Commissioner Doran, of the prohibition bureau, announced today that in the last 10 months dry agents in the Baltimore-Washington district had raided 840 stills and seized 61,682 gallons of illicit liquor, 2,538,357 gallons of whisky mash and 519 automobiles. During the period, he added, a total of 3,196 prohibition prosecutions were instituted in the federal courts in the Baltimore district.

Doran declared he made public the figures of the drive against the manufacture of illicit liquor as a result of a recommendation by a Baltimore federal grand jury which advised that prohibition agents direct attention to the source of supply rather than at "hip pocket" purveyors. The commissioner contended the figures showed agents had done so and that they would continue their campaign against illicit stills.

Man Near Death At Rome After Shooting Affray

Rome, Ga., May 27.—(Special.)—W. M. Riddley is lying at the point of death in a local hospital and Cleve Bobo is being held in the county jail here pending the outcome of the former's wounds, following a shooting affray on the Lindale pike this morning.

The affair occurred a few miles outside of the city limits and, according to statements made by both and taken down by a court stenographer, bad blood had existed between them for several months. Bobo, after shooting Riddley in the arm and abdomen, called an ambulance, and went to the sheriff's office and gave himself up. Riddley is not expected to live.

TENNESSEE GIRL IS OUT ON BAIL AWAITING TRIAL

Georgetown, Tenn., May 27.—(AP)—Miss Eva Cofer, 21-year-old farm girl, who responded to the improper advances of Lee Atchley by attacking him with the spoke of a wagon wheel, will go on trial tomorrow on charges lodged against her in connection with Atchley's death.

The girl was released Saturday on $10,000 bond and the trial set before Magistrate Bruce Freeman in Chattanooga.

Calling at Atchley's grocery store last Thursday to pay for 5 cents' worth of candy she had purchased earlier in the day, witnesses said Miss Cofer was insulted by the man, who seized her wrists and attempted to embrace her.

The girl fled the store and returning 30 minutes later with the wagon wheel spoke, beat Atchley across the head and walked away calmly. The grocer died 12 hours later.

Funeral was held for Atchley yesterday, while Miss Cofer attended a family reunion.

CONGRESS LEADERS HOPE FOR EARLY END OF SESSION

Washington, May 27.—(AP)—After discussing the congressional situation at breakfast with President Hoover, administration leaders looked hopefully ahead today for an early termination of their worries on farm relief and the census-reapportionment bills and consequently an all-summer adjournment.

The breakfast conference was attended by Senator Watson, of Indiana, republican leader of the senate; Speaker Longworth and Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the house leaders.

It was declared later that plans were still going ahead for a recess until fall. This was taken to mean that Mr. Hoover has given his approval to the long layoff, although it was stated he is leaving this matter entirely to the judgment of congress.

SENATE CONFIRMS DWIGHT F. DAVIS AS P. I. GOVERNOR

Washington, May 27.—(AP)—The senate today confirmed the nomination of Dwight F. Davis to be governor general of the Philippine Islands. The nomination of Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., to be solicitor-general was confirmed today by the senate.

The nomination of James C. Tyler, to be a United States marshal for the southern district of Mississippi, was confirmed today by the senate.

5 GEORGIAN FORM SHIP'S ORCHESTRA FOR WORLD CRUISE

Five Georgia college youths, three of them Atlantans, left Monday for San Francisco, where they will embark on a round-the-world tour as ship's orchestra of the President Mc-

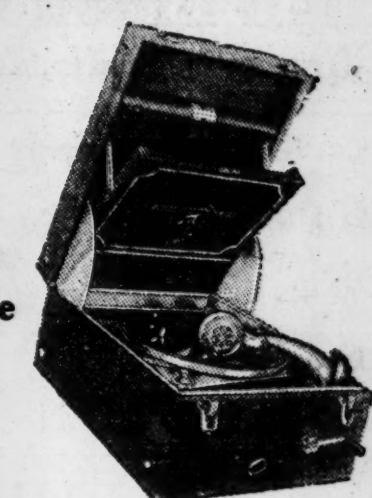

Kinley, the Dollar line steamship, to sail shortly on a world cruise. Forest Stringer, Paul Landon and Bow Shaw are the three Atlanta boys, while Jimmie Beers, of Newnan, and Beverly Irwin, of Buford, will make up the orchestra. They are students at Oglethorpe and Mercer and were together in California with the Georgia Tech football team last December.

No Monday schedule.

Aviation activities here were at a low ebb Monday and few plans, save those on business bent, ventured into the realm of red mud that was Candler Field. Air mail ships ran pretty much on schedule, despite the rains and clouds, but would-be visitors to the airport's waterway were disappointed in favor of the comforts of home. But one out-of-town plane landed during the day, Jimmy Krouskop, of Macon, reaching Atlanta during the afternoon in his Waco on the way home from the Gainesville air meet. Jimmy made his trip to North Georgia by winning some prize money in a couple of events.

Jesse Exum, local parachute jumper, returned to Atlanta yesterday from Gastonia, N. C., where on Saturday and Sunday, he made test jumps in a new chute which he has just made for the exclusive use of Miss Koo Flock, who has made several Sunday afternoon jumps at Candler Field, and who probably will turn the trick again this week-end. Exum stated that the new parachute worked perfectly and added that he had received a letter from the National Flying Circus, which now is doing its stuff in the Carolinas.

Atlanta will be a stop on the Ford Reliability Tour of 1929, it was announced in New York Monday by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, the fifth annual event to start at the Ford Airport, in Detroit, on October 5, and terminate there on October 21. Captain Ray Collins, of Detroit, will be manager of this year's tour, and Captain Frank M. Hawks, west-coast non-stop title-holder, will act as referee. According to the preliminary plans announced Monday, the following cities will be visited during the 4,400-mile tour: Windsor, Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal, Canada; Portland, Maine; Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Richmond, Charlotte, Greenville, Savannah, Jacksonville, Macon, Atlanta, Nashville, Louisville, St. Louis, Kansas City, Des Moines, St. Paul, Mankato, Wis.; Milwaukee, Moline, Ill.; Chicago, Kalamazoo, Mich., and Detroit. Only bona-fide aircraft manufacturers will be allowed to enter ships for the tour, it was announced.

Atlanta fliers and aviation operators here were invited to attend a meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon, when members of the aviation committee of city council will gather to consider a number of matters pertaining to administration of the field, it was announced Monday.

Governor L. G. Hardman has been asked to co-operate with the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics in the final phase of the work of identifying the nation's towns and cities by roof markings. According to the fund's report, only 2,000 towns of a total of about 15,000 of intermediate size—between 1,000 and 50,000 population—have failed to indicate this identification feature in navigation, according to Harry F.

Arrest and the recovery of a part of the money.

On a tip that suspicious actions had been observed in an apartment house here, Becker and assistants went to the house Sunday and found a quantity of cash in a stove. On the theory that the ashes might have been from wrappers in which the stolen currency was contained, they burned some wrappers and found the ashes seemed to be identical. Becker found that a woman, driving a car with a Kansas license tag, had been about the apartment house for several days.

Mrs. Rayl was arrested by Hutchinson police soon after a description had been broadcast to towns along the road leading to Kansas.

NEW HOPE TO SETTLE WAR DEBTS IS FELT

Paris, May 27.—(AP)—Technicians worked through the night on computations that the experts of the reparations conference tomorrow may use them to give new life to the negotiations.

Owen D. Young and his staff today gave new vigor to the committee, which was considered moribund at the end of last week, by examining with other experts the new possibility of a way out of the deadlock between the Germans and the allies.

The operation most favored takes the form of new calculations as to what the annuities originally proposed by Mr. Young would yield if they began at other dates than April 1, 1920, which was the basis for the original calculations. The experts tonight would not reveal what the new dates were.

The creditor experts still insist that payments under the Dawes plan ought to continue at least until the end of this year. Dr. Hjalmar Schacht holds to his demand that they cease with April, 1929.

The difference in actual payments between the two points of view would be about 630,000,000 marks (approximately $151,200,000). The creditors relied on this additional sum to enable them to agree on a reparation of payments among themselves which would permit acceptance of the Young annuities.

Since Dr. Schacht rejects this view it is necessary to find some way of reconciling the divergent opinions.

It is hoped that accountants may elucidate the situation respecting the present value of the annuities and their final yield in such a way as to enable the creditors to make concessions to Germany. If they succeed there will remain in the way to agreement only two of the German conditions, those as to suspension of reparations payments in case of economic difficulties in Germany and the right to call for a new conference to revise any decision now taken.

Both these conditions have largely dropped from the discussion, indicating they did not furnish the major difficulty.

CAMPAIGN OPENED TO RAISE $3,000 FOR NEGRO CHURCH

Launching a campaign to raise more than $3,000 due on a building bond, Rev. J. T. Williams, sponsor of the building movement.

HOOVER INVITED TO N. C. HOME-COMING WEEK

Governor and Delegation Call at White House To Make Request.

Washington, May 27.—(AP)—Governor Gardner, of North Carolina, and a delegation from that state including Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, today invited President Hoover to attend a homecoming week for North Carolina to be held at Raleigh in October.

Governor Gardner told the president that he felt it would be of especial interest to the chief executive inasmuch as several of his ancestors lived for a time in North Carolina. He said, too, that when a similar event was held 25 years ago it was attended by President Roosevelt.

Members of the delegation said afterwards that while not committing themselves, President Hoover seemed much interested by the invitation and expressed the hope that the press of public affairs would permit him to be present.

In addition to the governor and Mr. Daniels the delegation consisted of Senators Simmons and Overman; Representatives Warren, Abernethy, Poirer, Clark, Doughton, Jones and Pritchard; W. A. Graham, commissioner of agriculture for North Carolina; Dr. E. C. Brooks, president of North Carolina's State college; W. B. Duncan, of Raleigh; Dr. Harry Chase, president of the University of North Carolina; H. G. Chatham, of Winston-Salem; Stewart W. Crum, of Charlotte; C. V. York, of High Point; J. W. Hardien, of Burlington, and A. C. Bonner.

Skill of Pilots Save Life Of Parachute Jump Student

Mobile, Ala., May 27.—(AP)—Harold Williams, who set out yesterday to become a parachute jumper, today had given up the career after relating a thrilling experience which would have been fatal but for the skill and presence of mind of his pilot and the pilot of another plane.

Williams attempted to jump from a plane piloted by W. A. McDonald, a Mobile aviator, when his parachute became fouled in the lower wing. As he hung from the plane the youth tried to pull himself back to the wing but to no avail. McDonald saw that a landing would mean that the youth would be dashed to his death.

Another pilot, Duke Kessler, flying near-by, saw the youth's predicament. He returned to the airport and loaded a 200-foot rope. Taking the air again he maneuvered to a position above McDonald and dropped the rope to him.

McDonald played the rope out to Williams, who tied it about his body. The pilot then banked the plane from side to side and pointed the nose of his ship upward, throwing Williams into a position where he could grab the tail skill.

McDonald made a perfect landing and the only injury Williams suffered was a bruised shoulder, received when he was dragged along the ground in landing.

TURKISH QUAKE IS FATAL TO 64; 72 ARE INJURED

Paris, May 27.—(AP)—Havas agency dispatches from Ankara, Turkey, today said 64 persons were killed and 72 injured in 74 villages in central Turkey, shaken by an earthquake Saturday.

Greatest damage was reported from Karalissar and Souheir, near Sivas. A total of 1,857 houses were destroyed and 313 others damaged.

On May 3 earthquakes continuing for three days shook Russian Turkish and Persia, destroying several villages and causing, according to unofficial estimates, 2,000 deaths.

Judge J. D. Lovett Dies Unexpectedly During Court Trial

Nashville, Ga., May 27.—(Special.) Judge J. D. Lovett, 51, prominent attorney of Tampa, Fla., and formerly of this city, while engaged today in the trial of an important case of the Herrien superior court just at the noon recess hour, on reaching the Hotel Nashville died suddenly of cerebral hemorrhage.

He had complained during the morning of severe headache but otherwise was in his usual vigorous health. No arrangements for funeral services have been made. All members of the family were in Georgia with him.

Doctor Found Women and Children Sick More Often than Men

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough examination. They were constipated.

In the course of Dr. Caldwell's 47 years' practice, he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with psyllium. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and placed it on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a public success as it previously had in Dr. Caldwell's private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us it helped when everything else failed.

While women, children and elderly people are especially benefited by Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, its mild, gentle action is promptly effective on the most obstinate cases. Containing neither opiates nor narcotics, it is safe for the tiniest baby. Children like it and take it willingly. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.—(adv.)

The Power Behind The Rogers Brushing Lacquer Money-Back Guaranty

Over 17,000,000 cans sold in 3 years, with requests for money back practically unknown. One of the most remarkable tributes to quality in American paint manufacturing history

THE SENSATIONAL sales success of Rogers Brushing Lacquer from the very beginning of its appearance on the market is one of the wonders of American industry.

There can be only one explanation: A perfected product that does everything claimed for it, and more.

Back of "Rogers" sales success is a great scientific triumph. Without it there could have been no Rogers Brushing Lacquer to bring color and beauty into millions of homes—and no money-back guaranty.

Years of Scientific Research
Perfecting Rogers Brushing Lacquer

Thousands of experiments and testing of 1183 different formulas were necessary before we were satisfied that we had a lacquer ready for the market. Then, and only then, was the first can sold.

So confident were we of its perfection that we offered it for sale under a money-back guaranty. That's why, in spite of enormous sales, a returned can is almost unknown.

Improvement has followed improvement since "Rogers" first appeared, at the rate of one improvement every 63 days. Refinements include easier brushing and perfect leveling out qualities, increased durability, more uniform gloss and stronger, clearer depth of color. The latest is a pleasant new odor. These outstanding improvements continue to keep Rogers Brushing Lacquer in a class by itself.

This is the Age of Lacquer

This year lacquer in the spray form will be used to finish 5,000,000 automobiles. As brushing lacquer it will find two new users where there was one before—in homes, offices, stores, etc. Here, in the vast majority of cases, the choice will be "Rogers."

A Utility Finish of a Thousand Uses

In your home or place of business there is perhaps something that needs a new lease of life—furniture, woodwork, floors, cabinets—in fact wherever a colorful, durable finish is desired—Rogers Brushing Lacquer will do the work—will give you results you never thought possible.

Try a can today. For sale by your nearest paint, hardware or department store.

SOLD UNDER MONEY-BACK GUARANTY

The standard of perfection—a true brushing lacquer, with remarkable covering qualities. Easily applied. Dries while you wait to a smooth, glossy, almost indestructible finish, without lumps, streaks or brush marks. Will not lift the under coat. Choice of 26 beautiful colors.

13 MEN, WOMAN JAILED IN NARCOTIC ROUND-UP

Large Percentage of Local
"Peddlers" Fall Into Federal Net.

Arrest of 13 persons over the weekend on charges of selling narcotics constitutes one of the largest "clean-ups" in recent months and resulted in the seizure of a large percentage of those engaged in the practice of selling dope in Atlanta, according to the federal narcotic agents here.

Most of the actual arrests were made in the vicinity of the new Pryor street viaduct, it was stated.

Jewell Morris, wife of Joe P. Morris, who is said to be serving a sentence on a narcotic charge, was among those caught in the drive. She was placed under bond of $1,000 following a preliminary hearing before Commissioner Griffith Monday afternoon.

Bill Spann also was given a preliminary hearing before the commissioner and was committed to jail in default of $1,000 bond.

Others arrested are being held in custody and will be given hearings during the next few days, it was stated.

CAPITOL TO CLOSE MONDAY IN HONOR OF JEFF DAVIS

The state capital will be closed next Monday in observance of the birthday anniversary of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy.

Exercises will be held in the house of representatives hall at 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon in observance of the holiday by local Confederate organizations.

Lawyers' School.

Dean Roscoe Pound, of the Harvard Law school, who is a member of President Hoover's commission for the study of law enforcement, will address the annual meeting of the Lawyers Club of Atlanta at the Henry Grady hotel at 5:30 o'clock Monday afternoon. Officers for the ensuing year will be named.

Membership of the Lawyers Club includes approximately 300 lawyers and judges in Fulton and DeKalb counties. Officers are: Rembert Marshall, president; Horace Sandford, vice president; John McCallum, second vice president; J. C. Shelor, secretary and William C. Davis, Jr., treasurer.

NEGRO IDENTIFIED BY WOMAN VICTIM AS SNATCH THIEF

Taken into custody Monday morning by Police Lieutenant T. O. Sturdivant's special plainclothes detail, a negro giving the name of Henry White, 64 Hilliard street, was positively identified by Mrs. J. L. Guerin, of 859 Pulliam street, as the thief who snatched her purse containing money, checks and jewelry totaling $1,100 Saturday night at Edgewood avenue and Bell street.

Approximately $150 in cash was found in the negro's house when he was arrested by Patrolmen F. C. Foster and R. C. Bell. He has no clue as to the whereabouts of the other loot had been obtained late Monday.

White is being held without bail on a charge of suspicion.

W. AND A. RAILROAD TO BE INSPECTED BY STATE BODY

Members of the state public service commission will go to Chattanooga Tuesday to make an annual inspection of the physical properties of the Western and Atlantic railroad, owned by the state of Georgia and leased to the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad.

Accompanying the commission will be J. Houston Johnston, engineer for the commission and Robert N. Springfield, secretary. The members of the party will return to Atlanta Tuesday night.

$1,620,183 RECEIVED BY CONFEDERATE VETERANS IN 1928

Confederate pensioners of Georgia received $1,620,183 in 1928, according to an audit of the books and accounts of the state pension department made public Monday by Sam J. State, state auditor, when a report of the audit was filed with Governor L. G. Hardman.

In 1928 there were 7,389 pensioners on the rolls, 2,430 old soldiers and 4,959 widows of soldiers.

Auditor State stated in his report that direct payment of pensions would produce a substantial saving each year. The pensions are now paid out through the ordinance of the state on a quarterly basis.

It is a "hard task" for an auditor to trace all pension payments through records of 101 counties, according to the auditor. He reported that there has been gradual improvement in the records of the state pension commissioner's office.

$25,000 DAMAGES ASKED AS RESULT OF TROLLEY CRASH

A suit asking $25,000 damages was filed in the city court Monday by F. O. Bentley, a printing pressman, against the Georgia Power Company for alleged injuries said to have been received in a street car accident on May 11.

In his petition, prepared by George and John L. Westmoreland and F. Joe Turner, Jr., Bentley charges that he sustained permanent injuries when a street car on which he was riding left the tracks and hurtled over an embankment near Fair street and South Moreland avenue.

GIANT AIRPLANE LEAVES FOR TAMPA FOR NEW SERVICE

Mitchell Field, N. Y., May 27.—(AP) The Southern Star, big amphibian airplane built originally for Rene Fonck to use in a projected trans-Atlantic flight, will leave tomorrow for Washington on the first leg of its first trip in South American service.

The crew will get their passports in Washington, and the Southern Star will proceed to Daytona Beach, Fla. Plans now are to start for South America from Tampa, attempting a non-stop flight to Santiago, Chile.

Harold E. McMahon will pilot the ship; Hubert Huntington, navigator; and Henry Bertrand, mechanic, will make up the crew, and John Montgomery, president of the company that owns the Southern Star, is going as passenger.

The craft is the flagship of a proposed South American air line.

ROAD EMPLOYEES TO BE ENTERTAINED BY JOHN HOLDER

John N. Holder, chairman of the state highway department, will entertain employees of the state highway department offices at East Point with a luncheon at the city of East Point office Saturday, it was learned Monday at the capital.

Chairman Holder will retire as chairman of the department June 5. It was learned that employees of the department will present the retiring chairman with a new automobile.

Colonel Sam Tate, of Tate, named by Governor L. G. Hardman as Chairman Holder's successor, probably will begin his new duties June 6, according to present plans.

LOCAL CIVITANS TO DISCUSS PLANS FOR MEETING HERE

Plans for the International Civitan convention to be held here on June 10-12 under auspices of the local club will feature the business program of the Civitan's weekly meeting at 12:30 o'clock today, in the Atlanta Athletic Club. Detailed reports of convention committees will be made at this time.

WOMAN'S DIVISION HEARS DISCUSSION OF PEACE PLANS

Peace movements sponsored by local organizations featured the monthly meeting Monday of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce woman's division. Mrs. Louis J. Elsas, chairman of the Atlanta Junior Red Cross chapter, and Mrs. Sinclair Jacobs, chairman of the Georgia Conference on Cause and Cure of War, addressed the session.

Mrs. Elsas discussed the work of the junior red cross in establishing contacts with children of foreign lands, while Mrs. Jacobs outlined the activities of the anti-war committee of which she is chairman. Music was furnished by Miss Nora Bell Emerson, pianist.

MRS. MOORE HAD SUFFERED FOR 19 YEARS, SHE SAYS

"I Don't Believe I Could Ever Find Words To Express the Gratitude I Feel for Sargon."

"When I say I was sick, weak and run-down for nineteen years that doesn't half begin to tell the grave condition of my health. And I seemed to grow considerably worse the last twelve months. I tried just about every medicine I had ever heard of that I thought would help me. They did me little, if any, good. Then I started the Sargon treatment. It increased my weight nine pounds and restored my health. When my friends stop me now and tell me how well I am looking, I guess I seem pleased, and I am. And not only pleased but grateful and happy, too.

"All my trouble started with a disordered stomach. Such gases, pains and sourness would come on after meals, and I felt so sick and wretched that life was simply miserable. I kept thinking that surely there was something I could do to get relief, but the more medicine I took, the more discouraged I became. They gave me slight temporary relief, and in a few days I was going through all the same misery again. Then constipation added to my troubles. My whole system seemed to be poisoned. Bilious headaches would last sometimes for two or three days. And my head would hurt so I could hardly see. Hot flushes and dizziness would come on, and I was frequently very nauseated. And how my back hurt me! The pain was so severe sometimes at night that I could hardly turn myself over from one side to the other. My nerves seemed to go to pieces entirely. There were times when I would be almost hysterical. I felt like crying and I seldom went to sleep before one or two o'clock in the morning. I lost weight rapidly and I look back now and honestly wonder how I ever lived.

"And what a relief—what a blessing—the Sargon treatment proved. I don't believe I could ever find words to express the gratitude I feel, for it did for me. Why, before I had finished the first bottle I was enjoying my food, everything agreed with me, and I commenced feeling like a different woman. I have taken seven bottles now, and hardly know myself. My nervousness is over, I enjoy such wonderful sleep and get up so strong and energetic that I can scarcely realize it is true. The pains in my back are gone. And so are the headaches and every other ache and pain. I feel almost as if I had been made all over again.

"For the first time in years, my constipation is ended. And give Sargon Soft Mass Pills all the credit. They stimulated my liver, ended my biliousness, and rid my system of poisons. They are mild but certain, and so different from the drastic, upsetting laxatives that I had taken before.

The above grateful statement was recently made by Mrs. Lizzie Moore, a highly esteemed resident of 417 Formwalt street.

Hundreds are daily calling on the special Sargon representative at Jacobs' main store, 6 and 8 Marietta street, to learn more about this remarkable new medicine. Sargon may be obtained at all Jacobs' drug stores throughout Atlanta. —(adv.)

WHAT WILL OUR SOLONS DO?
In less than a month the general assembly is to be convened for its biennial session and will be confronted with half a dozen of the most serious problems devolved upon the state's legislature during the past half century.

By reason of some limitations in the state constitution which could not be avoided and of others that have been ruthlessly overridden, the condition of the state has been brought low and aggravating. A formidable financial deficit has been accumulated, payments due to state employees, school teachers and pensioners are in sad arrears, and the highway department is deeply in debt.

The revenue system of the state demands plenary and drastic reorganization, because we have come to the critical issue—more money, or less government? The legislature must consider that issue from all its angles and say which.

The judicial structure must be fully studied with the object of providing the people of Georgia with speedier and surer protection and justice.

The educational system—or lack of system—must be given a thorough study and reorganization upon a statewide control plan. If the education of the people is a state function, then the state should control the machinery of it absolutely; but if it is only a local obligation, then turn the whole business over to the localities, absolutely.

The highways problem is second to none in the state's program. After ten years of ask trial as any one could ask the "pay-as-you-go" plan, so dear to the hearts of the political demagogue and the "fraid-cats" around the courthouses, has broken down lamentably, and a disgusted, mud-dauber citizenship is now sternly and angrily demanding a new plan that will speedily and splendidly lift the state out of the mire!

There are other statewide matters but little less important, but these we have mentioned are enough to indicate the solemn importance of whatever action the general assembly may take upon them in its forthcoming session.

The hope is generally expressed throughout the state that the legislature of 1929 will prove itself one of the wisest, most politically unselfish and most constructive that has dealt with the people's welfare since the state resumed her self-government.

THE BRITISH ELECTION.
The British parliamentary elections on Thursday will have only a mild interest for most Americans, because there is no outstanding world-affecting issue involved in the result.

The conservative party, led by Premier Stanley Baldwin is seeking a new lease of government control; the labor party, headed by Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, is asking for another trial at running the British machine; while David Lloyd George, the most picturesque and really the most forceful character in English politics, is leading a sort of forlorn hope for the minority liberal party.

The enlarged women's vote is the questionable one for the moment. If it could be largely mobilized by either of the major parties it could easily determine which shall control the government; but as yet no one can predict just what salient effect the so-called "flapper vote" will produce.

The chief issue between the parties is that of how to deal with the unemployment problem, which has been acute and enormously expensive for many years past. British industries are too heavily depressed to take care of the workers of the realm and millions of them have to be supported from the public treasury.

ury. The principal remedy proposed is a great scheme of public works so that the unemployed may be put to work and earn better than the doles given them in their idleness from the public funds.

The scheme has some of the earmarks of the Hoover idea that the United States should form a co-operative federal and states reserve fund of $3,000,000,000 to provide work during any future period of industrial depression and great volume of unemployment.

It will interest public economists and labor actuaries in this country to learn how such a plan strikes the English labor class and which remedy for their unemployment they will most popularly endorse.

THE TERRIBLE TARIFF.

The Hawley-Smoot tariff bill is scheduled to go through the house of representatives today like a streak of greased lightning through a cloud of steam. Of course it is being steam-rolled, for that is the only way a tariff bill gets through the congress at any time. Every member with a notion of his own cannot be permitted to pick and gnaw at such a bill, for then it would hardly get to enactment at all.

The bill is a lulu from the protectionist point of view, but only its actual operations can demonstrate who is to be protected profitably and who is to be taken sniping-bunting with false hopes.

What the bill will have and hold when it eventually gets through the senate and conference, is something else again that no one can now predict.

The main thing which looms out of it, as adept political observers view it, is that it is going to create so general dissatisfaction among the wage-earners and vast army of consumers as to make almost certain a sweeping democratic victory at the congressional polls next year. So mote it be!

THE TRICK-DEBENTURES.

The rank and file of the genuine democrats of the Union have at least one reason to be pleased that Herbert Hoover is president. He is granitically opposed to the debentures trick that it is possible the congress may impose upon the farm relief bill now in conference between the two houses.

That alleged scheme of "relief" for the distressed farmers of the country is the most viciously undemocratic proposition that has been concocted in the congress since that body was set up by the constitution. If it ever gets through congress and reaches President Hoover's table he stands pledged, by word and principles, to smash it with a veto; and when he does that, if challenged to it, he will sit in the seat of Thomas Jefferson and "wield the honest" pen of Andrew Jackson, the two surest democrats of our American age!

It is a bare-faced gold brick designed to bunco the producing farmers of the nation. Only about one-fourth of their produce is exportable and upon that only would the debentures issue—and not then to the producing farmer, but to the produce exporter. The assinine fiction that the export debentures upon a fourth of the crops would automatically lift and stabilize the selling price at the farm gates of the entire crops is too obvious for discussion.

The debenture is a shrewd—almost rascally—device to deceive the farmers and transfer relief from them to the importers of farm products that diminish the home markets for their produce and also to enable the importers to get luxuries, diamonds, a thousand competitive articles into the American market cheaper by the use of farm debentures bought at heavy discounts.

From whatever angle one looks at the debenture scheme it takes on fresh colors of delusion and certainly fresh features of repugnance to every sincere and faithful democrat. The profound puzzle in the whole situation is to understand why democratic senators and representatives have persuaded themselves to vote for the debenture trick? Surely they cannot have convinced themselves that they are standing for the best interests of farm relief and are doing something that will add prestige and public confidence to the democratic party of the nation!

Mr. Ford was entertained by 2,000 leading Jews of New York city. Long ago he retracted what he said about the people of this race and they must have retracted what they said about his Model T.

There is a splendid crop of wild blackberries in Georgia and their possibilities in making vinegar will not be overlooked.

The government is acquainting the public with the smaller currency when we haven't got acquainted with the kind in circulation.

When you see a car with "Excuse My Dust" slogan chalked on the tonneau it is more than likely it refers to the driver's hereafter.

The house committee has accepted a raise on the tariff on tar, which will go hard on the famous tar babies.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Microphone In Coffin.

A gentleman was buried in the Cemetery Montmartre the other day, who had ordered a microphone put in his spacious coffin with him, also a telephone, boxes of condensed food and some instruments such as an ax and a crowbar. He had been before he died that he might verify shortly and he wanted things on hand to facilitate escape from his tomb. Nothing has happened so far. In spite of the fact that an electrician must every day verify the lines and call up the dead man. This idiosyncrasy recalls similar strange notions. For instance M. Fromageot, the newly appointed French member to the Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague carries a little silver whistle on a cord around his neck. He is never without it. M. Fromageot dreads the possibility of a railway accident and being buried under the debris. He fears that his cries in such an eventuality would not be heard, hence the little silver whistle. It's long been the joke at the Quai d'Orsay, and many have attempted to prove the insanity of his theory, but he listens to nobody.

The Pope's Coachman.

The review by the pope in the Vatican City, of 200 motor tourists from Milan, was a unique event, and a sign of the times even in such a conservative center. The pope reviewed a great line of equipages was just before 1870. Then Pius IX reviewed the magnificent carriages of the Roman aristocracy with their liveried servants, the gilt trappings and the outriders. The present pope's own coachman, Giovanni Politi, grew up among the pomp and paraphernalia of the old pontifical equipages, and until recently he was the only one allowed to drive the pope's carriage in the Vatican city. But it is now several years ago since the pontiff abandoned the carriage and chose a motor car, to the intense grief and disappointment of his old coachman. Every day, however, Politi would hitch on his horses and take up his station in the courtyard, waiting patiently for his holiness who never came. The horses themselves broke the charm by one day losing their patience. They took fright, bolted and charged around in a wild race with the driver trying in vain to pull them up. One of the horses was killed and when the pope heard of it he refused to permit another horse to be purchased. Politi was then put in charge of the pope's motor cars and his duties assigned him alongside the chauffeur.

An Anglo-French Debate.

Vaccination against small pox is not compulsory in the United Kingdom, but it is in France and now with the mild epidemic in Britain, an animated debate is going on between newspapers on the two sides of the channel. As generally happens in such cases, good humor prevails, yet lately a note of bitterness creeps into the exchange of amenities. Take for instance the following excerpt from an editorial article in Le Figaro, of Paris. They cannot terminate us all, with their smallpox, these "messieurs les Anglais" says the paper. Too many of us are vaccinated and therefore immune, but it does not mean they can bring about some terrible ravages. And it would not be the first time that they have done so in a manner to reduce a race that was a bother to them. When the Anglo-Saxons set out to conquer America, they did not always exterminate the native Indians fast enough. Sometimes they hadn't sufficient cartridges, so what did they do, the inconsiderate holders of the land? They befriended the natives and gave them cast-off clothes of persons who had died of small pox. Against this the noble Redskins could not protest, for they were dying. Others fled to the interior of America, leaving the Anglos the fertile and eventually prosperous coastal regions. That was the procedure once. Frenchmen take heed!

LOSS FROM IMPROPERLY ADDRESSED MAIL DESCRIBED.

BY WALTER F. BROWN,
Postmaster General.
(Walter F. Brown, born at Massillon, Ohio, May 31, 1869. He is a graduate of Harvard and studied law from 1894 to 1908. He practiced law at Toledo, Ohio, with his father, and since then has been a member of a law firm there. In 1921 he was chairman of the congressional joint committee on postoffice and post roads, and was named assistant secretary of commerce in 1927 and was recently appointed postmaster general by President Hoover.)

A waste amounting to approximately $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 annually to the post office department and the users of the postal service, results from the improperly prepared and improperly addressed mail.

The post office department maintains four offices for dead letters and 13 for dead parcels. During the last fiscal year, 23,000,000 letters and 400,000 parcels were sent to the dead letter and dead parcel offices. The actual cost of operating these offices is $27,000. Of this, $22,000 was realized from postage paid for the return of letters and parcels, and stamps taken from dead letters and the proceeds of the sale of undeliverable parcels. The net loss to the government from the operation of the dead letter and dead parcel offices is not a significant sum. A much larger loss, however, is incurred in the preliminary handling of this improperly prepared and improperly addressed mail.

Letters addressed to an existing post office but bearing an incorrect street address or none at all, are forwarded to the post office named and there given what we call "directory service." That is to say, they are turned over to a corps of clerks who are employed to ferret out the correct addresses, if possible, from city directories and other sources of information. If the mail is addressed to a post office which is not located in the state named but which is located in another state, an effort is made to find the addressee there. The cost of giving this extra service to improperly addressed mail is enormous. In the city of New York the cost of this service is approximately $450,000 a year, and in Chicago the cost is more than $500,000. It is conservative to say that this unnecessary cost to the post office department in the whole country is between three and four million dollars a year.

But think, also, if you will, of the cost to the patrons of the post office department. The postage and stationery wasted amounts to considerable more than $500,000 a year, improperly lost to the sender of the improperly addressed letters and merchandise found in undeliverable parcel post or loose in the parcel post stamps is not lost.

Farm Relief Foolishness Will Force a New Political Era in the Nation.

The common citizens of the United States do not know how to regard the antics and frantics of their senators and representatives in the congress at Washington. Those eagle birds of Freedom, so to speak, do some few things that are expected of them and a great many that ain't!

It is quite to be understood that 531 men assembled from all over the nation in a union will not have a common understanding of what should and what should not be done for the welfare of the nation. Any one who will read the titles of the thousands of bills introduced into each session of the congress will appreciate at once how needful is the organization of the two houses in the present emergency.

The Farm Relief Farciatilities.
As a glaring sample of the piddling and pantomiming that goes on in the congress, consider the ways in which 531 alleged statesmen have dealt with the subject of farm relief for eight years, at least, and are now messing it up so that Socrates, Plato and Aristotle could not straighten out its kinks!

President Hoover, when perspiring through his campaign to become president, played unwise politics, on Borah's insistence, when he promised the farmers to call a special session for their relief. He kept his pledge, the special session is grinding, and the relief is no nearer in sight than it was a year ago.

The senate and house conferees on the farm relief bill are dead-locked over the debentures scheme. The house failed to include it; the senate stuck to it. The president, who is to consider the bill at all unless the debentures ride is unshored, while the senate conferees say that, since the house members were muzzled from considering and voting upon the debentures device, they want to know how the rank and file of the house stand toward it, and demand a vote on it. But it is plain that the house leaders are afraid to put the scheme to the test of a house roll-call.

Lots of Folks Are Weary.
A fairly close survey of the newspapers of the nation indicates that a large majority of the people of the country are getting weary of the farm flub-dub and congressional buncombe concerning the so-called "farm relief" problem.

The common citizen doesn't see any problem in the situation. He argues that the farmers knew from the start that they were overproducing and, if they didn't at first, they soon found it out—and yet they have gone on bullheadedly overproducing and are doing it this year! And with those facts admitted by the farmers themselves, the non-farming fellow has lost sympathy with the farmers. He doesn't care a red cent whether a farm relief bill is passed, or not, by the congress.

In fact, it is strongly seeping into the minds of most many of the farmers who have to buy their food every day from the baker and the grocer that whatever bounty above normal market prices is given by government to the farmer is going to be paid for off the breakfast and dinner plates of the people at large.

A Revolt Against Federalism.
Many acute analysts of the public psychology are beginning to report the incubation of a popular revolt against the many efforts to make ours a paternal government.

Too many of the individual duties of the citizen are being taken over by federal and state commissions and bureaus. The European who Americans have been absorbed by the federal government.

Some day not far distant, it is predicted, the popular demand for the return of federalism to its original functions will become the paramount issue in national politics. If the democratic party fails to seize upon the widening opportunity to take the leadership of that growing demand, then another party will arise to embody the spirit and will of the people to go "Back to the Constitution!"

That slogan is being sounded from all parts of the country and some day it will rally an undefeated army that will march to Washington and restore the government to its original principles.

He Shot an Arrow Into the Air—

The World and All by CHARLES B. DRISCOLL.

A GREAT COMEBACK.

In the summer of 1919 there was not an ocean-going ship that carried the German flag.

Before the war, Germany and Great Britain were rivals in peaceful (or reasonably peaceful) courting of the oceans. The German flag went everywhere on German ships. Germany lost the war, Great Britain took most of the German liners and changed their names. The United States took what few she could find in American ports. Among them was the Leviathan.

Germany was left shipless. Ten years after the war, Germany is almost back where she was in 1914, so far as shipping tonnage is concerned.

T. R. Thayer has an astonishing article about it in the May World's Work. I gather from this article that Germany will soon be far stronger in the world's shipping than before the war.

Germany has been second in merchant shipping. She dropped to sixth when the allies took her ships away from her.

She is now in third place. Great Britain and the United States alone lead her.

I think this is one of the most amazing demonstrations of a nation's energy and industry in all history.

If you are going to keep Germany down, you've got to whip her every ten years. And the world can't afford to do that. It costs too much.

Perhaps it's a good idea to abandon entirely the expedient of whipping nations down. They rise so fast after a whipping that the victor hardly has time to regain his breath before his opponent is swanking about, bigger than ever, and all ready to be expensively whipped again.

We've got to learn to live together; we modern nations. It's live together or die together. The next war that we so hard on the victors that they will wish they were vanquished, and the vanquished will be so completely destroyed that they can't help the victors pay their war debts.

Maybe we'd better just forget about it and let Christ be the peacemaker. He's a good fellow that will cost less and furnish more entertainment.

Railroad Earnings Low, Says A. B. & C. Executive

Editor, Constitution: While so much is being said about the recent decision of the United States supreme court in the O'Fallon case, there is one fact which cannot in fairness be overlooked, viz: That the railroads as a whole have not earned since the war anywhere near 5-6 per cent on the valuation the interstate commerce commission contended for.

"Even with the liberal allowance for difference between railway book cost and the valuation which the commerce commission may finally fix for rate-making, the return in seven years since enactment of the new rule of rate-making is markedly inadequate. For seven lean years (1921-1927), average return on investment was but 4.3 per cent. Aggregate net railway operating income of the seven years was two billion two hundred and seventy-seven million less than 3-4 per cent on investment, a deficiency of $225,000,000 a year."

I am quoting verbatim from the report lately made by the National Bureau of Economic Research to the many interesting facts and deserving perusal by those who wish to get an unbiased and up-to-date review of transportation and other problems.

Very truly yours,
J. L. EDWARDS,
Vice President.

Wearing a Coat Unlike Yours Doesn't Prove Him Your Inferior

By Robert Quillen

I have just finished reading a "high-brow" magazine whose editor is famed as an author and critic. Its stories and articles, without an exception, reflect the personality, prejudices and temperament of the editor.

This is not surprising; but these stories and articles, with few exceptions, reflect opinions and reveal facts peculiar to the section of country and the social division in which the editor dwells; and thus the magazine, while professing to be national, must appear provincial, narrow and ignorant to Americans who live in other sections or have traveled sufficiently to know their country.

One article describes conditions in one county and concludes with the astonishing statement that conditions are the same in 400 other counties south of it.

This trick of reasoning from the particular to the general is typically American; that is, typically provincial—and in some measure accurate for the muddled state of our social, economic and political affairs.

To discover and reveal the true opinion of America concerning any controversial subject would require placing keen, unprejudiced observers in every small section; for in opinion, ideals, hopes, hates and fears, the people of one state differ from another; the rich differ from the poor, the town from the country, the factory worker from the plow hand, the educated form illiterate, the religious from the agnostic, the hill country from the low lands.

The description that seems true in Maryland seems a revelation of mendacity or ignorance in Colorado; the argument based on conditions in Maine seems absurd in Texas.

Our country is so vast and its problems so different in different sections; our people, adjusted to their different environments, are so unlike in their needs and faults and virtues, that no true picture of one section can serve fairly as a picture of America.

The European who Americans New York and writes a book about America is no more absurd than the American who judges his country by his own locality.

To save ourselves—to overcome lawlessness, give the worker justice, help the farmer, overcome racial and religious prejudice and solve our other problems, we must become "national minded"—we must develop a new tolerance and a new sympathy for our fellow citizens in other localities, and outgrow the provincial ignorance that prompts us to ridicule or denounce our neighbors across the creek because their window curtains aren't like ours.

EVERYDAY QUESTIONS

BY DR. S. PARKES CADMAN.

Harlan, Ky.
I am a Jew and read your answers with deep interest, though I do not always agree with you. I too have a question which would like you to answer: If Christians claim to believe the old Testament as they believe the new, why do they not observe more of the Jewish rituals? God the Father in the Old Testament orders this, that and the other thing; then Christ the Son comes and nullifies by many of His teachings His Father's commands as contained in the Old Testament. Did Christ revolt against His Father?

Christ in His time was considered to have been a rebel against the existing form of government and religion and as a rebel He was slain. His fate was no different than that of the political rebels of the time. He was crucified, and where He was believed, He might have averted that fate. But this is precisely the reason why He did not remain there.

Your first question unconsciously reveals one of the most fundamental differences between the Jew and the Christian. The simple truth is that Christians do not believe in the Old Testament as they do in the New, and doubtless the Jewish brethren more highly regard the Old Testament. Christians esteem and love the law as the record of a religious development which came to its consummation in the person and teaching of Jesus of Nazareth. Much which the earlier books teach, especially in the prophets and the Psalms, they are glad to retain because it is in perfect agreement with "the mind of Christ." But those parts of the Old Testament which are not in such agreement they reject except for historical purposes.

In this they are only following a principle that our Jewish brethren themselves follow, namely, that when a higher truth is given a lower truth loses its authority. Does not the Jew accept the new covenant of Jeremiah (31, 31) as the crown of glorious prophecy? And was it not intended to replace the Old Covenant which are not in such agreement with that sublime passage from the greatest of prophets. For it also explains why Christians do not observe many of the Jewish ceremonies.

In a word, the governing authorities which are not in such agreement with that sublime passage from the greatest of prophets. For it also explains why Christians do not observe many of the Jewish ceremonies.

On the other hand, the traditional Jewish attitude toward Jesus Himself is somewhat illogical from the Christian viewpoint. The supreme fruit on the Jewish stock is Jesus of Nazareth—greater than Moses, greater than David, greater than Isaiah. There are encouraging signs that Jews are at last beginning to realize this fact.

'LOAN SHARK' MEETING
WILL BE HELD TONIGHT*Business Men To Confer
With Jaycees on Fight Against Lenders.

Representatives of some 60 business firms in the city have been invited to attend a meeting at the Ansley hotel at 6:30 o'clock tonight to confer with members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce "loan shark" committee on ways and means of assisting in the fight to oust all usurious money lenders from the city.

R. J. Reynolds, Jr., chairman of the committee, reported that a large percentage of those invited will be present.

The work of the junior chamber along this line in the past four years has substantially reduced the number of so-called "loan sharks" operating in the city and it is the intention of those backing the drive to carry the work on to completion.

The conference tonight is to be modeled along the lines of the "Transportation" conference held here last year when all railroads in the city were asked to a similar gathering. The result of this was to secure the co-operation of a large number of railroad executives and this proved a decided setback to that part of the money lending trade which is said to charge illegal rates of interest for its services.

Tobacco Curing.

Waycross, Ga., May 27.—(Special.) Curing of tobacco is expected to be started in Ware county during the present week, a number of farmers, in various sections of the county, reporting the earliest crop they have ever raised. The first barns are expected to be fired during the latter part of the week.

Alumni of the Georgia Military academy began to arrive Monday for their day of celebration, beginning this morning at 10 o'clock and ending tonight with the annual alumni banquet. During the afternoon, beginning at 3 o'clock the annual competitive company and individual drill will take place.

An Atlanta boy, Cadet Russell West, is to deliver the valedictory at the final exercises Wednesday morning. Robert H. Jones, Jr., of Atlanta, and John T. Boileau, of Atlanta, are on the program Wednesday morning to address the senior class of more than 50 cadets.

Following the commencement addresses Colonel J. C. Woodward, president of the school, will deliver diplomas, warrants and honors to the graduates.

Monday morning, Ralph McGill, of the sporting staff of The Constitution, delivered more than 75 athletic awards to cadets excelling in football, basketball, baseball, track and tennis.

Monday afternoon the senior class presented the school with an ornamental gateway.

Fifteen cadets, selected from the courses in expression and public speaking, Monday night competed in the annual oratorical contest. Those competing were as follows:

Edward S. deBrauwere, Miami, Fla.; Peter Hendrick, Java, Dutch West Indies; Robert Ramon Espino, Havana, Cuba; Edwin C. Dozier, Jr., Thomasville, Ala.; H. M. Link, Orlando, Fla.; Jack de Jarrette, Atlanta; C. E. Ricks, Reynolds; W. R. Throver, Tampa, Fla.; Thomas J. Shave, Jr., Fernandina, Fla.; H. H. Rolston, Knoxville, Mo.; Wm. H. Toler, Rocky Mount, N. HOLMES INSTITUTE
ENDS SUCCESSFUL
YEAR'S SESSION

Holmes institute, charitable and industrial school for negroes, Monday night in the chapel closed its 12th session with commencement exercises which marked the most successful year's work in the history of the institution. More than 125 students were enrolled in all departments, which included tailoring, dressmaking, laundering and domestic science and high school and junior courses.

The commencement address was delivered by Rev. B. R. Holmes, president.

"The greatest problem which confronts the colored people of the south is to give their children a useful education which will enable them to be an asset and not a liability to the community. Too many students are graduating from the colleges and universities of the country without a practical education, and a large percentage will not work unless they can find a teaching job," Holmes said.

Rev. Noah W. Williams, pastor of St. James A. M. E. church, St. Louis, Mo., and Rev. B. G. Dawson, pastor Quinn Chapel A. M. E. church, Chicago, paid high tribute to the work of the Holmes institute.

The industrial exhibits will be on display today and Wednesday from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Inch of Precipitation Adds To Heavy Total for Month

Seemingly bent on breaking all past rainfall records for Atlanta, Jupiter Pluvius continued his assault on a thoroughly drenched city about noon Monday and added more than one inch of precipitation to the rapidly rising total for the month, and C. F. von Herrmann, local meteorologist, states that while the worst is over for the time being, additional showers may be expected this afternoon.

Precipitation at 7 o'clock Monday morning totaled slightly more than one inch and to this was added something more than that amount by the noon showers, according to a rough estimate at the weather bureau. With the month's figures reading 4.31 inches Monday morning, enough rain fell during the day to bring this to approximately five and one-half inches, which is an excess of more than two and one-half inches for the period starting May 1.

that precipitation for this much of 1929 had reached the unprecedented figure of nearly 38.50 inches while the average for the entire year is only approximately 10 inches more. Thus a dry spell lasting through September would still leave the record for the year in the vicinity of normal figures.

The wettest year on record at the local bureau was 1920, when 65.24 inches were recorded, and with less than five months of the current year passed, the total to date is well in excess of half this amount. The driest year on record is 1904 when only 33.13 inches fell.

The driest May on record is 1914 when the precipitation totaled only .30. The greatest amount of rain ever recorded this month was in 1925 when near 10 inches fell.

MABEL WILLEBRANDT
EXPECTED TO QUIT

over which she has had jurisdiction for the past several years. Mrs. Willebrandt's friends say that she is planning to leave the government service simply to better herself through accepting a more lucrative private law connection, several such connections having been offered her both here and at New York, it is said. Her associates say that when and if she does leave it will be due to this and not to any break with other department officials over controversial policies which she has pursued.

Nevertheless, among those who have followed her colorful and agitated career in Washington there is a suspicion that her resignation if it should come in the near future, may be the result largely of differences existing between her and Attorney-General Mitchell over departmental policies, both with respect to the much criticized espionage system, brought to the front in the forced retirement of former Warden John W. Surin, of the Atlanta federal penitentiary, and the program for transferring all prohibition enforcement activities at the department of justice under her direction.

To Abolish System. As for the espionage system it is well known in informed circles here that Attorney-General Mitchell intends to have it abolished, although vigorous protests against such action have been made by Mrs. Willebrandt. Mrs. Mitchell is understood to have secured Senator William E. Borah, republican, of Idaho, that the system will be abolished. Recently he announced that the new superintendent of federal prisons, scheduled to take office next month will be directed to make an investigation of the entire federal penal structure with authority to abandon any policies of management now in practice. The statement from the attorney-general was regarded as a veiled acknowledgment of his plan to get rid of the spy system. He could not afford to make an open and definite announcement on the question himself in view of the Willebrandt attitude. Therefore the issue was passed along in a diplomatic way to an incoming official, with private assurance that things would be worked out to the satisfaction of such critics as Senator Borah, representative Thomas M. Bell, of Georgia, and others who have been heard.

Reports concerning a break between Mrs. Willebrandt and other administration officials over the proposed transfer of prohibition enforcement activities to her office are equally interesting. They have been heard in Washington for some time. At present all enforcement work is conducted under the treasury department, having been placed there because of its close connection with international revenue affairs, long identified with treasury operations. President Hoover put forward the proposal anew during the campaign and Mrs. Willebrandt warmly approved it.

Transfer Routes Howl. Since then however, a rather vociferous howl against the transfer has come from the treasury department, even some of the most ardent drys pressing open opposition. Objection has been reached in other quarters that the woman assistant, due to her dry crusading tactics in the campaign, was improperly suited to the administration of such a function. It is known that several of her higher co-workers in the department did not relish the idea of having the prohibition founding left on their doorstep with Willebrandt in charge. Measuring the future by the past, they saw prospects for the department to come under continuous fire of congressional critics, much in the same way as the treasury has borne the brunt of attacks since it was placed in charge.

But the chief misgiving was that Mrs. Willebrandt would succeed in stirring up things worse than normal. As a result there has been anything but an encouragement of the idea, and it will be now grave doubt that it will ever be adopted.

More To Desire. Consequently, there is some basis for the belief in certain circles that her decision to retire may be the outgrowth of something more involved than a simple desire to return to private law practice.

Since last March a general, but wholly unfounded report has been that Mrs. Willebrandt was not wholly satisfied with her own situation in the department. One report was that she wanted full authority in prohibition prosecution cases since she was to have full responsibility. Another was that the prohibition unit was transferred from the treasury to the justice department, she desired to have personal direction of the legal aspects of the enforcement work, with the large legal staff in the unit placed under the direction of the chief of the unit.

There also had been reports that she wished to have administrative charge of the whole unit.

She started her public career, almost an unknown outside of California where she had already earned a reputation as a capable lawyer, doing the Harding administration when she was appointed to the post she still holds. Mrs. Willebrandt was born in Woodstock, Kan., 45 years ago, but migrated from a girl to Arizona where she attended normal school, graduated in 1911. She married while teaching school in Michigan and moved to California when her husband's health failed. There she studied law while teaching school to support herself and husband. They were admitted to the bar together in that state. Mrs. Willebrandt lives here with two other professional women and her 12-year-old adopted daughter, Dorothy.

The report of Mrs. Willebrandt's plans for the future have set at rest, temporarily at least, rumors that she was being considered by President Hoover for a California federal judgeship, a post for which she is said to be ambitious.

LINDBERGH AND ANNE
WED AT EDGEWOOD

one and his bride told nobody where they were going when they left.

FLYER ORDERS PLANE PREPARED. Roosevelt Field, May 27.—(United Press.)—An aerial honeymoon for Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his bride appeared likely tonight as Roosevelt field mechanics, acting on the flyer's orders, hurriedly went to work on his Curtiss Falcon monoplane.

They had received a call from Lindbergh during the day, they said, to have the plane ready for him at 8 a. m. tomorrow.

The plane was gone over completely, a faulty oil line was repaired, then it was taken up for a test flight. After being pronounced fit and ready it was filled with oil and gasoline and taken to the Curtiss hangar to await Lindbergh's arrival.

ANNE DEMANDS IMMEDIATE WEDDING. Meadville, Pa., May 27.—(AP.)—That Miss Anne Morrow suddenly decided last night to wed Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh today instead of later as had been planned, was the announcement of Mrs. Edwin L. McIlvaine, an aunt of the bride, who was in communication with the Morrow family today.

A telegram from Ambassador Dwight Morrow to his sister here, who is the wife of Dr. Edwin L. McIlvaine, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was as follows: "Anne and Charles married very quietly this afternoon. Betty and I regret your absence, but there seemed no other way after the sudden decision last night."

"DWIGHT MORROW." Dr. and Mrs. McIlvaine had planned to attend the wedding. Mrs. McIlvaine telephoned the Morrow family at Englewood, N. J., today and was informed that the wedding was advanced at the request of Miss Morrow, because she was annoyed by the publicity and the insistence of reporters and curiosity seekers for information.

MEXICAN ROMANCE IS RECALLED. New York, May 27.—(AP.)—A quiet young man who "isn't a bit sentimental and doesn't care for girls" spent Christmas of 1927 as the guest of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow in Mexico.

The fact that his flight to Paris the preceding May had idolized him in the hearts of feminine America had served only, perhaps, to make him all the more retiring—even to the point of bashfulness.

But in the seclusion of the ambassador's home, near the hospital of a nation whose traditional adjective is "romance," he found refuge from the plaudits of the world and became again, even temporarily, a private citizen.

In this setting he met the diplomat's 22-year-old daughter, a pretty and brunette, who had been graduated from Smith college the preceding June.

Charles A. Lindbergh, whose paramount interest is aviation and who dislikes to talk about anything else, found that she, too, was intensely interested in flying.

Soon the colonel was taking her for short flights. He returned to the Morrow home whenever possible, and they went for strolls or drives together through the picturesque country.

Rumors of a romance for the calm young colonel began to float about. At first they were undecided whether to attach to Anne or her elder sister, Elisabeth.

Along in November appearances began to favor Elisabeth, whom Lindbergh had met at the same time he met Anne, and who, it was pointed out, was the more sober of the two, and hence more the colonel's "type."

Out in Mexico City they still thought of Anne as the future Mrs. Lindbergh, despite all denials. When Lindbergh took off from Valbuena field last November for the United States, he gave Anne a beautiful—and daring—aerial salute. She was at the field with her family, and Lindbergh, after climbing to a little height, circled and dipped low over her head.

Some three months later Ambassador Morrow, who previously had reminded inquiring newspapermen that the matter was, after all, rather personal, announced the engagement.

Former President Plutarco Elias Calles, a friend of the young couple, was delighted to learn the news.

His daughter, Ernestina (Mrs. Thomas Arnold Robinson), who had been one of the first to suspect the romance, merely remarked: "I told you so."

MEXICAN ENVOY SENDS CONGRATULATIONS. Washington, May 27.—(AP.)—Ambassador Tellez, of Mexico, tonight wired to Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh as follows:

"An indiscreet friend from the press has just transmitted to me the happy event of your wedding. Permit me to express to you my deep, heartfelt congratulations and to assure you, without any modesty, that in that expression I am certain to interpret the sentiments of the people it is my pride to represent here. May the blessings of God be always with you."

SECOND ENDURANCE FLIGHT EFFORT FAILS

Minneapolis, May 27.—(AP.)—Lack of fuel ended the attempt today of Gene Shank and Owen Haugland, commercial pilots, to set an endurance flight mark for a single motored airplane when their craft was forced down after about 32 hours in the air.

Shank and Haugland took off at Wichita, Kas., Saturday morning and flew to Minneapolis yesterday, expecting to circle over this city several days before returning south. Failure of their refueling supply in time ended their plans.

Low visibility and "bumpy" air contributed to the end of the flight and also nearly caused a crash just before the monoplane was forced down today. One refueling contact was made this morning, but on the second attempt the endurance ship went into a dive.

Shank, at the controls, pulled the ship to safety when only about 100 feet from the ground. Subsequent attempts at contact with the refueling craft failed, and Shank and Haugland landed in a farmer's pasture, after their gasoline supply was exhausted.

ROBBINS-KELLY BEGIN TO CASH IN.

Fort Worth, Texas, May 27.—(AP.)—Reg L. Robbins and James Kelly today began to reap some of the rewards in store for them as the new holders of the world's endurance flight record. Rested by a long sleep after completing 172 hours, 32 minutes, 1 second of continuous flight in their single motored monoplane, Fort Worth, the airmen awoke today to find presents and lucrative offers pouring in on them.

Scores of offers for vaudeville engagements, newspaper and magazine articles on the flight and various positions with aircraft concerns were received.

Robbins and Kelly had not decided what course to follow, but friends expressed the belief that they would go

KING VICTOR RATIFIES CHURCH-STATE TREATY

Pope's Signature Needed To Make Articles Effective in Italian Accord.

Rome, May 27.—(AP.)—King Victor Emmanuel III today signed and ratified the lateran treaties between the Italian government and the holy see.

Only the signature of his holiness the pope is now needed to render the treaties effective and heal the breach that has existed between church and state in Italy since the end of the Vatican's temporal power in 1870.

The king signed the treaties after he had received Premier Mussolini and other ministers in the Quirinal palace. The treaties will be published in the official gazette tomorrow or Wednesday and subsequently the duke and Cardinal Gasparri will formally exchange ratifications at a date and place not yet decided.

The first visit of the Italian sovereign, accompanied by Premier Mussolini to his holiness is now only a matter of days, the Tribune said this afternoon. The Vatican authorities have not yet decided whether the visit should take the form of a solemn reception, such as on the last visit of King Alfonso, of Spain, or follow the simpler model set at the last call of King Albert, of Belgium.

on an aerial "barnstorming tour." A representative of the Mahoney Aircraft Corporation of St. Louis, arrived with word that a new Ryan plane with a Wright whirlwind motor would be presented to the fliers in recognition of their record smashing cruise in the Fort Worth, a rebuilt Ryan plane.

Robbins and Kelly will receive $5,500 each from the Fort Worth Association of Commerce and $5,000 will be divided between K. K. Hoffman and H. S. Jones, who refused the endurance ship during its flight of more than seven days which ended Sunday afternoon.

Approximately $2,000 will be paid to Robbins and Kelly by aircraft companies which offered them the men $100 an hour for each hour they exceeded the former record of 150 hours, 40 minutes, 15 seconds, set by the army monoplane, Question Mark.

NEW ABATTOIR NEARS COMPLETION AT THOMASVILLE

Thomasville, Ga., May 27.—(Special.)—The abattoir being erected here to safeguard the meat supply and protect the health of the local people, is nearing completion. It is located north of the town of Thomasville, near the Thomasville and Albany branch of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad, and will be supervised by Jesse Blanton, builder.

Thomasville city council some weeks ago made an appropriation to pay for part time services of a meat and milk inspector, and Dr. R. D. Carr was named for this position. Members of council visited Valdosta, and studied methods being followed there in this connection and then fashioned their abattoir plans somewhat on the basis of information obtained and observations made in that town.

"Glamour" of War Depicted
In Play by Fulewider Group

Harassed by a script that just wasn't there, the Fulewider players at the Atlanta theater Monday night put up a gallant, but futile battle with the intent, it seems, to show that "all that glitters is not gold," or rather that "Glamour," the title of the piece, is an inappropriate adjective to apply to war as she was fought a little more than 10 years ago.

Honors for the evening must inevitably drift in the direction of Harold Tucker, as Sergeant Wally Blanks, who goes across immediately after his marriage to the only girl only to discover later that she was far from being a model of virtue. His was practically the only role worthy of the name, and he handled it in an entirely capable manner. Marian Grant, as the wife in question, tried hard and her efforts were not entirely fruitless.

Harold Selman, as Private Murphy from New Jersey, turned in a good piece of work and some clever dialect of the New York type, providing some bona fide humor in so doing. This part of the action also was helped out a little by John McGrath, as Private Adams, and Sheila Trent, as his wife. Homer Miles as an enlisted "Tommy" also was good for a few hearty chuckles. Others drifted in and out for no apparent reason.

HIGHEST HONORS
OF GEORGIA BILL
TAKEN BY KLEINS

Al and Harry Klein, a pair of premier comedians, scored highest honors on the week's vaudeville program at Keith's Georgia theater, which is one of the most entertaining and pleasing that has been seen here in several weeks. The well-balanced vaudeville bill is climaxed by a picture full of youth, romance, thrills and colorful dialogue plays. The screen production is "The Man I Love," featuring Richard Arlen and Mary Brian in their first "talkie."

The Klein brothers presented an unusually colorful and eccentric comedy number. The act drew plenty of applause Monday. It was far better than any other on the program.

"A Night in Greenwich Village" is the title of a one-act in which Manny King takes the role of a young violinist, striving for honors, who finds himself compelled by circumstances to accept a position in the Greenwich restaurant. He is ably supported by capable assistants, who help make the appearing here and disappearing there, doubtless as called for by the manuscript.

The action opens in a tent in an army training camp, jumps to an apartment on Riverside drive and from there to the war zone and back again. The plot is concerned with the love of Wally for Bonnie Carson, whom he has idolized for years. When he finally asks her to be his wife she more or less jumps at the chance for reasons of her own, only to have her object defeated when her newly-acquired hubby is forced to pull out for points east too soon after the ceremony.

The truth of his situation is brought home to Wally in a very positive way when he is nearing the front lines, and he is determined to find "the man" even if it proves to be his last act. He does. They are left together in an outpost by the death of their companions. Wally succeeds in getting the ever-present message through to headquarters and with his responsibility of his shoulders, turns to wreak his vengeance. This closes episode No. 5.

"Ally is reported dead but shows up in New York after the armistice. You can imagine Bonnie's embarrassment. Well, you may think how it all ends but you are wrong. Anyway, the play stops at the end of episode No. 6. C. B. WILMER, JR.

act well worth while. It has plenty of humor in it.

Another of the highlights on the program is Adeline Bendon, well-known vaudeville artist, in a Harry Pope production entitled "Artistic Fancies." The act presents a combination song and dance act in which Eddie Mack, Joseph Bradshaw, George Horn and Red Beck take part. The dancing in the act was unusually good.

For real "stepping" the Three Jests present an act that is hard to top. Bessner, Seller and Bessner demonstrate a number of their latest "steps." "The Man I Love" shows two youngsters deeply in love who go to New York to seek fortune. Metropolitan temptations soon lead them astray and adventure follows adventure until they meet—an interesting picture to see.

A current news reel and an overture, "The New Year's Eve," complete the program. ROY WHITE.

Loew's Grand.

"The Iron Mask," the pictureization of Alexander Dumas' famous story of one of the most thrilling and dramatic episodes of French history, is the screen attraction at Loew's Grand, with Douglas Fairbanks in the role of D'Artagnan. The picture portrays the further adventures of the "Three Musketeers," in which Fairbanks won new fame as an exponent of the romantic adventurer of seventeenth century France.

Cameo.

Dorothy Sebastian, Larry Kent, Ruth Clifford, George Cooper and Edward Mandel are the principal characters in "The Devil's Apple Tree," showing today at the Cameo. A marriage by correspondence starts the trouble in this picture, and it involves a lost identity, savage warfare in a South Sea island and a love affair to the tune of tom-toms.

Alamo No. 2.

How New York enters itself between the exit marches of the theaters and the parade of milk wagons in the early morning is vividly revealed in "Broadway Nights," Robert Kane's new film featuring Lois Wilson and Sam Hardy at the Alamo No. 2 today.

Tenth Street.

"The Broadway Melody," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's all-talking all-singing all-dancing picture, is shown again today at the Tenth Street theater. This thrilling talkie has all the sparkle of the dazzling white way, all the homely tragedy of a side street rooming house, all the gaiety of a night club and all the reality of life. The featured stars are Bessie Love, Anita Page and Charles King.

Empire.

"Alias Jimmy Valentine," first of the crook dramas to spring into popularity on the American stage and considered by many still as the finest either the stage or screen has produced, is to be shown for the last time today at the Empire theater, corner Georgia and Crew streets. Williams Haines is starred in this all-talking picture presentation of the drama and he fits the character admirably, in the opinion of critics.

81 Theater.

"Twenty Dark Spots," each described as a past master at the art of entertainment in one of its plays, Friday night will stage the 81 Theater's regular midnight frolic performance for a special white audience. Manager Tom Bailey stated Monday that reservations are brisk, and he added that all who desire advantageous locations in the Decatur street playhouse should secure their tickets at once. These may be had at the Rex on North Pryor street or at the box office.

THRILLING TALKIE
PLEASES CROWDS
AT METROPOLITAN

"Through Different Eyes" is the all-talking picture seen and heard this week at the Metropolitan, and it proves to be one of the most thrilling and sensational talkies shown here in some time.

Mary Duncan, star of "The Shanghai Picture," is ably supported by her husband, Edmund Lowe, Warner Baxter and an all-star cast.

"Through Different Eyes" is a story of a mysterious murder which is not solved until the final scene. The picture portrays the crime as seen by the defense attorney, which convinces the jury that the defendant is innocent. Then the prosecuting attorney enacts the crime, showing that the defendant is guilty. Then, that justice might triumph, the real murderer confesses to the crime. The jury finds the defendant not guilty.

On the program with this interesting picture is a Vitaphone picture, a comedy, "Matchmaking Mamma," shown in technicolor and with all the fun which comes with any Sennett picture. Sam Coslow, who knows Vitaphone star, is seen and heard in "The Broadway Minstrel" singing some of the latest song and dance hits.

Art in its truest form may find expression in a barn, a crude Bohemian spot, where bricks, rafters and old lanterns rest, if the plays "Cassander," by Parker Hord, well known Atlanta and author of "A Youth Goes Forth," and "The Judgment of Indra," by Dhan Gopal Mukerji, are criticism. The one-act plays were presented Monday night at the "White Barn" theater, on Fourteenth street, the second to have been given by the Civic theater, Frank McMillan, president, since its organization in the early spring.

The purpose of the group to discover the playwrights, its actors and its directors, and to supply a means of expression for their work. Little doubt was left Monday night that this group of undiscovered talents living within our doors and that a cultured and appreciative audience, although small at these performances, is anxious and ready to receive it.

"Cassander," written by one whose work has been widely recognized, reflected a knowledge of dramatic situation and characterization which was finished and compelling and afforded remarkable opportunity for the ability of Mrs. W. C. Jamnigan, well-known Atlanta woman, as "Cassander," the mind reader. Any feelingness in the first of the play was due to the manner of presentation rather than the play itself. The play was magnificent impersonation of the role by the emotional, highly-strung actress, who meets her daughter in the red glow of her crystal globe, indirectly loves her, caresses and guides her and leaves her for the stage again without a suggestion of the fact that she abandoned her as a tiny child.

The lines of the play are strong, rhythmic and full of meaning. The part of Sylvia, enacted with ease by Mrs. John Morris, Jr., afforded a pleasing contrast to the older woman. Frank McMillan, as Pandolph, displayed abandon and feeling which added tone and character to the performance. Donald Huff and Claude Lyle as Dugan and Doyle completed the cast.

An artistic contrast was the play "The Judgment of Indra," with its Hindu setting, plain and severe, and its theme of universal love versus the individual. The feeling, the mood, the elevated tone of the play, in which Indra's curse disenchanted an abstract love, are heightened through the impersonations of Randolph Eklols as "Shukra," Carlos Lynes as "Shanta," Charles Johnson as "Kanaka" and Herbert Nellis as "Old Man." The plays were directed by Miss Marjorie Dunnaway, graduate of the Emerson School of Expression, of Boston, a former director of the children's theater of that institution. Miss Marjorie Osis, well-known Atlanta artist, assisted with the stage settings.

The play will be presented again tonight and Wednesday night at the White Barn. —LAMAR SPARKS.

CHEVALIER SCORES
SPARKLING HIT
IN HOWARD TALKIE

Maurice Chevalier, thus far the most powerful ambassador of talking pictures since Al Jolson, scores unquestioned success for himself at the Howard theater this week in "Innocents of Paris," an appropriately titled, well-directed, splendidly acted and altogether a great piece of entertainment.

Contrary to the general impression left by the title, it is not another of those deadly bathtub-bedroom-and-paris combination entertainments. It is alive and going every minute with the pepy Maurice as the little dynamo that keeps things on the run. He sings and dances and does a first-rate rib-busting fun to hear someone speak in a tongue foreign to their own, as demonstrated at any of his performances. Chevalier's all-talking picture is a masterpiece of the first-rate rib-busting fun to hear someone speak in a tongue foreign to their own, as demonstrated at any of his performances. "BROWN BROTHERS"
HEAD GOOD CARD
AT LOEW'S CAPITOL

That perennially popular act, the "Six Brown Brothers," headed by the clowning Tom Brown, is on deck at the Capitol this week to show the populace that it still is good. The saxophone tooting of the entire outfit combines with the conversational effects of Tom Brown to win the plaudits of the patrons.

A dancing act, combining a bit of novelty with considerable feminine grace, comes next in line to the saxophone.

Other items on the program are "The Great Train Robbery," one of the first motion pictures made, which provides a clever ten minutes of fun; "High Society," a Paramount all-talking comedy; a new addition to the Howard program, Pathe talking news and other novelties.

AMANULLAH PARTY
ARRIVES IN BOMBAY
FROM NEW DELHI

Bombay, India, May 27.—(AP)—Former King Amanullah, of Afghanistan, accompanied by Queen Souriya, his brother, Inayatullah, and their families, arrived in Bombay this afternoon from New Delhi.

On arriving at New Delhi yesterday Amanullah declared that he had no intention of returning to Afghanistan but beyond that declined to discuss the political situation there or his future plans.

Representatives of the Bombay government met Amanullah's party. The deposed emir drove off at high speed in an automobile amidst shouts of welcome from a crowd of Mohammedans and Pathans gathered in the station yard.

Amanullah appeared to be fatigued and depressed. Queen Souriya and the other members of his party followed in other automobiles. The queen and her ladies were heavily veiled.

An ambulance car with nurses, whose climate, water and scenery are unsurpassed, well prepared meals of fresh hand garden food served. Writs N. C.

Where away this summer? Atlantic City or the Maine woods? Cape Cod? It doesn't matter. The Cool, Green Road leads to everywhere in Vacation Land.

If you are a seasoned traveler we need not describe to you the joys of ocean travel. The lazy, restful hours in your stateroom chair. The gay and informal social life of the sea, where everybody meets everybody else. The deck games, the dancing in the open air on the upper deck, the bridge parties, the promenade on deck when a summer moon shines silver on a summer sea. The salt breezes, cool and pure from leagues of open ocean, that give an edge to jaded appetites and full you into deep, refreshing sleep. This summer, sail for Vacation Land on a Savannah Liner. You will find the actual "getting there," not the necessary evil it frequently is, but the jolliest part of your entire vacation.

Sail from Savannah any Monday, Wednesday or Saturday on a Savannah Liner. Your stateroom (with hot and cold running water) is as comfortable as your bedroom at home. Courteous, attentive stewardess anticipates your every want.

FINAL RITES TODAY FOR MRS. ROSSER, SR.

Funeral Services Will Be Held This Morning at Daughter's Home.

Funeral services for Mrs. Luther Z. Rosser, Sr., widow of the well-known Atlanta attorney, and mother of Chief Judge Luther Z. Rosser, of the municipal court of Atlanta, will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning at the home of her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Shelton, 2740 Habersham road.

Dr. Wallace Rogers, secretary of missions of the North Georgia Methodist conference, will officiate and interment will be in West View cemetery.

Mrs. Rosser, who had been ill about three months, died late Sunday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Shelton. Her condition had improved until a few days ago when she suffered a relapse. She was 72 years old.

She was the former Miss Julia

Connally, daughter of the late Thomas Connally and Temperance Peacock Connally, and was born at the old Connally homestead on Campbellton road.

For many years Mrs. Rosser was an active member of the First Methodist church, and she was at one time a member of the East Point Methodist church. She was a member of the Woman's Missionary Society and the guild.

Surviving are her son and three daughters, Mrs. Charles B. Shelton, Mrs. Julia Rosser Eby and Mrs. J. P. Hazen, and a brother, Dr. E. L. Connally.

FAILURE TO REMIT ALIMONY TO MEAN JAIL FOR THOMPSON

Charles W. Thompson, of a Moreland avenue address, Monday was ordered to jail in contempt of court by Superior Judge John D. Humphries. Thompson's wife appeared before the judge and told him that her husband was in arrears $150 in alimony payments which Judge Humphries had ordered.

The court issued an order for the arrest of Thompson and directed that he be held in jail until the alimony payments are made. Mrs. Thompson was unable to furnish Thompson's exact address and he was being sought by the sheriff's office Monday afternoon.

BOYKIN TO FIGHT DELAY IN W. D. MANLEY TRIAL

Ex-Banker Scheduled To Face Jury Today—Postponement Effort Seen.

With a determined fight for another postponement certain, the often delayed trial of W. D. Manley, former head of the defunct Bankers' Trust company, is scheduled to begin before Judge Virgil B. Moore in Fulton superior court this morning.

Manley is charged with violating the state banking laws in connection with his manipulations of the bank's affairs.

The former banker is said to be in a private sanitarium at Milledgeville, where he was removed a few days ago from his place of confinement.

Efforts of Manley's counsel to win a new postponement would be fought vigorously, Solicitor-General John A. Boykin said Monday.

"The state's doctors will appear before Judge Moore and make their report on Manley's physical condition," Mr. Boykin said. "We will have plenty to answer to the defense contention that Manley is too ill to appear in court."

The solicitor-general would not indicate what the state's physicians would report other than to say that they would not agree with the medical report of the defense.

CARL LANCASTER NEW TRIAL PLEA TO BE FILED TODAY

An extraordinary motion for a new trial for Carl Lancaster, a lawyer, under sentence of from 10 to 20 years for criminal assault, is expected to be filed today before Superior Judge E. D. Thomas. The extraordinary motion, which will be Lancaster's last hope of evading the sentence imposed upon him, was to have been filed Monday but his counsel were unable to prepare in time to present it to Judge Thomas before the judge left the courthouse.

Lancaster is at liberty under bond of $20,000 and officials of the sheriff's office said they would make no attempt to take him into custody until the extraordinary motion had been decided on as they already had been formally notified that it would be filed by his attorney, Chauncey Middlebrooks.

FLORIDA STORES

DECLARE DIVIDEND

Five stores of the Mather Bros. furniture chain recently have declared dividends, it was announced Monday by Cotton Mather, member of the firm. The stores and the amount of dividends declared are as follows:

Palm Beach, Fla., Mather Company, 6 per cent; Mather Barnes Company, Daytona Beach, Fla., 8 per cent; Dew Mather Company, St. Petersburg, Fla., 10 per cent; Miami, Fla., Mather Company, 12 per cent; Mather-Wiley Company, Orlando, Fla., 10 per cent.

In spite of the depression in Florida, not one of these stores has missed paying a dividend since the opening of the establishments in 1923 and 1924, Mr. Mather added.

Cooper is held in the Fulton county tower pending arrival of Ohio officers who will take him to Cleveland where he will be given a court trial. He is charged with robbing a man of $70.

ATLANTA SHRINERS TO LEAVE TODAY FOR LOS ANGELES

Two private cars containing Atlanta Shriners and their guests were scheduled to depart at 4:15 o'clock this morning over the Southern railway for Los Angeles, where the imperial council session will be held June 8-9.

The party, which includes official delegates from Yaarab Temple and others, is due to return home June 10.

LIONS TO MEET TODAY

Dean de Ovies Will Address
Weekly Luncheon.

The Rt. Rev. Raimundo de Ovies, dean of St. Phillips cathedral, will address the weekly meeting of the Lions Club at 12:30 o'clock today in the Henry Grady hotel.

Supplementing the program will be a violin solo by Mrs. W. Paul Green, accompanied by Mrs. Geter Abby at the piano, and a report on the coming Lions' international convention at Louisville.

Revival Continues.

The Rev. Lewis Sawgolsky, evangelist from Poland who is conducting revival services at the Pentecostal Holiness church, on Fair and Kelly streets, will continue the daily meetings at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and 7:30 o'clock at nights throughout the week.

FARM COMMISSIONERS OF SOUTH TO GATHER

Talmadge Lauds Plan To Hold Meeting on Cotton, Oils Tariff.

Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, Monday approved a plan suggested by Harry D. Wilson, commissioner of agriculture of Louisiana, to call a meeting of commissioners of agriculture of southern states to be held in Washington, D. C., between June 12 and 15. The plan was submitted to Commissioner Talmadge by Commissioner Wilson, who suggested that the commissioners meet to devise a plan for waging a fight for the imposition of tariff duties on long staple cotton, jute and coconut oil.

Commissioner Talmadge said these commodities recently were placed on the free list. He said a tariff on these products would be beneficial to the farmers in all parts of the south. "We have been gradually increasing the length of our cotton staple in Georgia and a protective tariff on importations of long staple cotton from Egypt and India would be of vast benefit to our farmers."

Commissioner Talmadge said jute is used in making burlap and said cotton should be used for this purpose. Vegetable oils imported duty free from Philippine Islands are in competition with peanuts produced in Georgia, according to Commissioner Talmadge.

Looks like a shame to sell men's genuine Palm Beach suits for $9.99, and $3.50 straw hats for $1.45, but that's what I'm doin' 'cause I told you before I want to go to New York to get two thousand overcoats made in June while them Yankee tailors ain't got nothin' to do. They not only make 'em cheaper but better when they ain't rushed.

Yep, still sellin' pure silk socks for 25c a pair. Everybody knows real silk socks sells everywhere for 50c, and they're worth it, too, but I got to cash in 100 dozen pair right now. It's gittin' hot now and you sure will need a half dozen suits of nice, cool white broadcloth underwear. THE UNKISSED BRIDE

By BERTA RUCK

SYNOPSIS.

Joy Harrison, living in London and working for Dr. Rex Travers in Harley street, is crushed by a letter from her fiancé, Geoffrey Ford, a well known novelist, asking to be released from the engagement. Preoccupied with her own trouble, she fails to notice that Dr. Travers seems troubled. Towards the end of the day he tells Joy that he has just lost a great deal of money through an unscrupulous solicitor and he will be forced to give up his house in Harley street.

Dr. Locke, a tenant, tells Rex that he has just been offered a practice with a comfortable villa in the south of France which he cannot take on, and he suggests that he recommend Rex for it. The only hitch to the plan is that they want a married doctor and Rex is a bachelor. To his partner's suggestion that he marry and take up the new post, Rex turns a deaf ear.

Joy, who has been listening to the doctor's colloquy, suddenly sees a method of escape for her and she asks Dr. Travers if he will marry her on a business arrangement. The doctor is stunned by her suggestion and finally asks her why she wants it. She tells him that she is badly in need of another job, although her real reason is to have Geoffrey read of her engagement to another man.

The doctor broods over the change his altered circumstances will have on his young nephew and ward, and finally decides to marry Joy. He enters into an agreement to marry on a strictly business basis. Immediately after the ceremony Rex, Joy and Percival Arthur leave for the south of France.

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

ESCAPE.

"That boy's getting a bit out of hand," commented Travers, turning back into the pinky lighted salon (that unbelievable room which shall be presently described). "Missing this summer term makes him fancy he can miss anything else he wants. He's always thinking out escapes."

"Isn't everybody?" gently remarked the girl on the balcony.

Yet it was she, Joy Travers, who represented the other person who was enjoying herself in this new life; it was this stricken girl (for whom the future had seemed to hold nothing) who had discovered that leaving London for the south had meant coming out of some dark, stuffy tunnel into radiance.

After reading that belated letter from Geoffrey Ford (she had hurriedly scanned it as Victoria platform just before they took their seats in the boat train) Joy might have been in the case of that man sentenced to death by torture, of whom we are told that after the first moments of that torture he laughed at anything his tormentors could do to him, since through shock, pain nerves had been destroyed.

Too late. Nothing seemed to matter. Impossible to explain to Geoffrey. Impossible to explain or show this letter to the man who was now (what mockery) her husband. The curious part was this feeling too tired, mentally, to worry about it, to think, "Well, but it is, after all, too late! What about Dr. Locke's saying it would not be too difficult to annul, or whatever they call it, this marriage? Anyhow, gosh! All spoilt. Why couldn't Geoffrey have said this before? Makes him all different. Anyhow, all spoilt now!"

In any case on this bridal trip Joy had been allowed very little time to brood. No sooner were they—with Mary and Roy—over the channel than Percival Arthur, who, after a full and restless morning had turned gradually and increasingly absent, silent and pallid, remarked abruptly:

"I say, Uncle Rex, I hope I'm not going to die."

"Good Lord, old man, d'you feel like it?"

In the blue train the boy was quite definitely train-sick and collapsed across the lap of Joy ("d'you mind?") Morning again! Washing in one of those dreadful little corner wash-stands, at which one never seems able simultaneously to keep the tap turned on and to wash, while the water is in any case a soup of suds. Train breakfast with the restored Percival Arthur and his Uncle Rex, whose face, after the train shave, showed a gash and two tufts of cotton on a rather grimly set chin. Arrival at Cannes.

Business over registered luggage in advance.

Customs cannot stale the interest which French douaniers appear to take in honeymoon luggage? One of that perennially attractive and this attracted race of men had a special smile for Joy as he asked if she had anything to declare? If madame would open that one? That one opened to display folded pink petals of madame's trousseau. Ah! A keen, dark-eyed glance. Salutes. Enough.

Motor drive through alien scenery: to the right of the road that unbleached Mediterranean blue; to the left, the toy architecture of villas set in sub-tropic foliage and backed by the soft distances of the maritime Alps.

At last the car drew up before one of two white villas, set between cliffs of aeneas. Its gates of curly metal work were overshadowed by a giant eucalyptus tree. Beyond, it showed as a balcony place of green jalousies and large plaques of peacock blue porcelain set like vast jewels along the facade.

"The Villa Newly-Wed!" exclaimed Percival Arthur. "Ha! How decent!"

O, the villa.

"It's not," Joy told herself, "as if it were like Geoffrey's rooms, or his mother's flat, or even Harley street; it's not as if they were surroundings that would remind me of anything. That I couldn't have borne. But look at Monplaisir! What could it remind one of? Nothing on earth. It's just a delicious joke!"

This would have pained the Miss Simpetts, who had taken this furnished villa next door to their own and who had sublet it, losing money thereby, to the people to whom they, with Victorian archness, referred as the happy pair.

Both the Miss Simpetts were waiting just outside the villa to receive the new arrivals.

As Dr. Travers, with the girl, the boy, the big dog and Mary, the maid, moved up the steps, these two ladies bustled forward in benevolent welcome as if of fairy godmothers. And one glance at them was enough to explain their eccentricity, their almost unheard-of pruderies in exacting a married doctor, they were capable of anything in the way of outgrown Victorian fussiness. The first thing, for instance, that Joy took in was that neither of these elderly maiden heires, one fat, one painfully thin, looked like an old lady. Rather, they made the effect of faded photographs held at a distance of debutantes of the '60s. Girlish clothes they wore, in the style of a day that is dead. These flower trimmed toques, corset outlined bodices, ample skirts and ornaments were considered by them becoming and in good taste for unmarried ladies.

Percival Arthur's eyes commented, "Marvelous efforts!"

"So glad to see you, Mrs. Travers. We hope that you and Dr. Travers will be very happy at Monplaisir!" twittered the elder Miss Simpett, who was so bonily thin she might have won a prize at any fancy dress competition to which she went as Death. About her, too, as Joy noticed, hung a metaphorically starved look. "Is this your doggie?" she added, putting out a claw towards the gleaming pelt of Roy.

"Yes, he's quite all right; he's as gentle as a lamb," Joy assured her. Unnecessarily, for the Simpetts, though full of other fads and phobias, had not acquired Alsatian terror; and to them a big "doggie" was still the friend of man. They twittered admiringly at Roy, who turned indignant golden eyes upon them and allowed them to paw his ears before he withdrew his stately head and took cover behind Joy.

She was touched by the Simpett attitude to the big dog; touched by that starved look, and she actually forgot to feel any sense of embarrassment over the next remarks that came from those spinsterish lips. Both Simpetts spoke in a gushing, italicized manner, and with a slightly extra emphasis they seemed to part a word in the middle. "Such an ideally romantic setting for a honeymoon, I always say!"

Her younger sister, the Miss Simpett who was in contrast so fat that (again Percival Arthur's comment) "you had to look at her face to see if she had her back or her front to you," chimed in coquettishly, "I always say setting is everything, Dr. Travers."

Dr. Travers, at the top of flight of steps between oleaners in vast porcelain pots, took refuge in the Englishman's monosyllable, "Quite."

"So delightful that we are able to have you as next-door neighbors; so fortunate that the last owner happened to be in a hurry to dispose of everything exactly as it stood. Yes. This French lady, Madame Jeanne Something—We never actually called on her. You see, living by ourselves out here and not being married"—practically coy smile here—"we have to be a little careful, don't you see?"

Joy said she saw.

"Rather careful who we know! I always say why call on foreigners when there are plenty of the nice English in the neighborhood? We rather think madame must have been on the stage. She dressed in rather a pronounced way, if you know what I mean, and she was a great many most theatrical looking visitors driving in very loud cars. But, as I always say, 'We'll go in, shall we? This is the salon; it looks over the garden. This way. As I always say, she did know how to arrange her house in the most delightful taste."

SOCIETY TO GATHER EN MASSE AT DRIVING CLUB OPENING

Election Of Officers Precedes Dinner Dance

Society will gather en masse this evening at the summer opening of the Piedmont Driving Club where the picturesque terrace of this fashionable club will be the scene of a gay throng dining and dancing underneath the rays of an early summer moon. The illumination from innumerable Japanese lanterns encircling the entire terrace will add a mellow glow to the lovely setting. The appearance of Atlanta's most beautiful maids and matrons wearing filmy summer gowns in an array of pastel and brilliant hues with transparent straw hats, lace-trimmed, will announce the arrival of the summer season. Preceding the dinner the annual meeting of the club membership and the election of officers will take place at 6:30 o'clock. H. M. Atkinson is president of the club, and the board of directors is composed of the following members: R. W. Courts, Jr., Albert Thornton, Jr., Hughes Spalding, R. Harry Bewick, W. A. Parker and Charles D. Orme.

Another promising event scheduled for today is the marriage of Miss Virginia Dore Carter, of New York, and Russell Seaman Reynolds, of Greenwich, Conn., which will be solemnized in this city at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Blackman on West Andrews drive at 4 o'clock, and will be attended by a number of well-known Atlantans and out-of-town guests.

Miss Gorman Honors Graduate at Dance.

Miss Virginia Gorman entertained at a dance at her home on Highland avenue in honor of Miss Catherine Hale, a popular graduate of Sacred Heart school, last evening. The guests included Misses Catherine Hale, Kathleen Murphy, Sara Palmer, Madeline Cone, Katherine Chadwick, Camille Kelly, Wilma Robak, Sara Brossman, Irene Cole, Louise McMillan, Florence McMillan, Miriam Marshall, Suzanne Adair, Mary Tucker, Annette Blanton, Anita Piekatti, Dot Wallace and others. Carl Pittard, Tullis Capps, Bob Lytle, Rupert Murphy, "Tack" Page, Gaines Hugley, Jim Bob Martin, Sophie Lester, Cazy Shaw, Richmond Chadwick, "Yutti" Mellichamp, Sam Mellichamp, Duncan Mellichamp, Charles Hurst, Julius DeGrove, Max Dreka, Bocar Hale, Kenneth Moss, Tom Carter, Billy McCoy, John Ivins, Joe Hale, Joe Redwine, Robert Youngblood, John Connolly, Frank Petway, Robert Durling, Joe Stephens, George Stephens, Joe Stephens, Mae Holliday, Bill Bailey, Leon H. Ilday, Charles Murphy, Mark Johnson, Mike Darcy, Eddie Beane, George Winn, Robert Carter, Emmett Carter, W. H. Cook and others.

Miss Gorman was assisted by her mother, Mrs. George J. Gorman, and an aunt, Mrs. Achard.

Miss Caroline Hall To Be Presented.

Charles Beaton, of the piano department of the Atlanta Conservatory of Music, will present Miss Caroline Hall in senior recital assisted by Miss Hortense Hughes, soprano, certificate pupil of Mrs. Albert Carroll Sumner, this evening at 8:30 o'clock in Cable hall. The public is invited. Miss Hall is completing the course in three years with an additional two-year normal course, under the guidance of Mr. Beaton. Miss Hughes is soloist at Collins Memorial church in Bolton and won second place in the Atlanta elimination contest of the Atwater Kent national radio contest. These two young artists will give an interestingly varied program.

Dorothy Henry Wins Loving Cup.

Dorothy Henry, gifted young pianist, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Henry, was announced the winner of the silver loving cup offered each year by Miss Ruth Dabney Smith to the pupils of her class for the best average of good lessons during the year. Honorable mention ribbons were awarded to Sterling Slapkey, violinist, and Janie Tennent, pianist.

Tuesday - Fashion Day at RICH'S

Chiffons

for Morning, Noon and Night

A Night-Blooming Chiffon . . .

—Needing only castanets and a lace mantilla to step into the role of a dashing Spanish lady. Demurely long-sleeved—daringly décolleté in back—with flowing draperies that float far below the hem. In soft afterglow pink and Castilian red. From Specialty Shop, priced . . . $177.50

For the Informal Tea . . .

—The afternoon chiffon appears no longer in the pink and baby blue prettiness of other days. Here's a true modern . . . vividly printed in Mediterranean blue and Capucine designs. Sleeveless with pleated bertha collar. From Specialty Shop, priced . . . $38

For the Bridge Luncheon . . .

—A chartreuse chiffon ensemble dimmed and softened with tiny roses printed in black. Blouse of solid color chartreuse with pleated bertha collar . . . three-quarter coat of print. From Specialty Shop, priced . . . $69.50

The airy chiffon frocks . . . erstwhile modest maidens who fluttered like moths at the candle-lit dinner hours . . . and only occasionally dared the last rays of the sun at formal garden parties . . . have shouldered the social duties of a full-time day and night. Fearless, dauntless creatures they have grown to be . . . veiling their frivolous natures in dignity and austerity for morning, gaining grace and courage with the capes and flouncing tiers of afternoon, blooming into the full glory of their beauty as lovely ladies of the evening.

ON AUTO DEATH CHARGE

Jury Frees Former East Point Mayor on Involuntary Manslaughter Charge.

Jonesboro, Ga., May 27.—(Special.) Acquittal of C. H. Livsey, former mayor of East Point, on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death in an automobile accident November 23, 1927, of J. Elmo Green, featured the May session of Clayton superior court.

The jury freed Mr. Livsey after his counsel, H. A. Allen, of Atlanta, and O. J. Googler, of Jonesboro, pleaded that the accident was unavoidable. Mr. Green, prominent Atlanta automobile man, was crushed to death between his own and Mr. Livsey's cars when the automobile driven by the former mayor struck the Green machine while Mr. Green was repairing a rear tire.

Counsel for Mr. Livsey contended that the accident had been caused, at least, in part, by the position in which the automobile struck was parked.

ATLANTIC PLANES
CONTINUE WAIT
FOR GOOD WEATHER

Old Orchard Beach, Maine, May 27.—(AP)—The proposed trans-Atlantic flights of the Yellow Bird and the Green Flash were definitely off for today at least.

Armino Lotti, sponsor and co-pilot of the Yellow Bird, which will head toward Paris, and his navigator, Rene, Le Fevre, planned to fly to New York. When weather reports indicate favorable weather, they will notify Jean Assolant, pilot, who will prepare the plane for its flight. They then will return by air.

Roger G. Williams and Lewis A. Yancey, pilot and navigator, respectively, of the Green Flash, in which they hope to fly to Rome, remained here, receiving weather reports by telephone and telegraph.

Indication that bad weather would have been encountered caused postponement of the takeoff today.

PEACE RESTORED
IN RAYON MILL
STRIKE AT MEET

Elizabethton, Tenn., May 27.—(AP)—A conference of union leaders, mill officials, business men and strikers this afternoon brought peace again and workers began filing application for re-employment in the American Gleanzstoff and American Bemberg textile plants after a strike of six weeks. Alleged communists and a misunderstanding for a time had threatened to nullify the settlement of yesterday.

Workers appearing to apply for re-employment in the mills early today saw T. Perry, alleged abductor of two union leaders in the office at a hotel, where they were to apply, and this, coupled with what W. F. Kelly, vice president of the United Textile Workers of America, termed "communist" agitation served to create excitement and strikers refused to apply for work.

Later, however, the conference was arranged and strikers placated, and registering of applications was moving forward rapidly late today.

BLIND EMPLOYEE
FROM BAPTIST CHURCH ON TRIAL

Louisville, Ky., May 27.—(AP)—The case of Albert Nisbet, blind, former magistrate, charged with embezzling $22,040 from the Baptist Tabernacle, where he was chairman of the building fund, was continued today in criminal court until October 1.

Today marked the third time the case has been called and the third time Nisbet has been unable to appear. Counsel for Nisbet offered a physician's affidavit stating his condition would not permit his appearing in court.

Nisbet has been confined to his home from a nervous breakdown that occurred just before embezzlement charges were lodged against him.

Sheriff Subject To Arrest; Failed To Answer Questions

Washington, May 27.—(AP)—Sheriff Thomas W. Cunningham, of Philadelphia, was declared by the supreme court today to be subject to arrest by the senate for questioning concerning his refusal to answer certain questions in connection with the investigation of the election of William S. Vare as senator from Pennsylvania.

OBOY

"OBOY for health!" That's a slogan that has swept the town since this distinctive new loaf was introduced. Boys and girls began it. Grown-ups soon caught on. Anyone who has eaten Oboy can see the reason why. Its quality is apparent as soon as you cut through the flaky-fresh crust to the creamy white heart beneath. There's health and strength in every slice—the nutrient that active youngsters and busy parents need. More, there's a deliciously different flavor that makes this health food enjoyable in unlimited quantities. At your grocer's.

"I wish all girls knew how important this is"

Says a 1929 debutante

A delicate subject, yet women should recognize the importance of this new process which deodorizes Kotex... already perfected in cut and improved in every comfort detail.

THERE is one uncomfortable social situation women are now spared. The latest discovery in Kotex Laboratories banishes all odor and each Kotex sanitary pad is treated by this patented process. No self-consciousness now, no fear of offending in this way. This one remaining problem in connection with sanitary pads is solved!

So soft—and shaped to fit

Because corners of the pad are rounded and tapered, it may be worn without evidence under the most clinging gown. There is none of that conspicuous bulkiness so often associated with old-fashioned methods. The amazing absorption of Cellucotton absorbent wadding is a tremendous advantage. It is actually 5 times more absorbent than cotton. The identical material used in 85% of the leading hospitals of the country, Cellucotton absorbent wadding is preferred by surgeons for its delicate softness and hygienic comfort. You can adjust the filler to suit your own special needs. It is easily disposed of, no laundering is necessary. A new process makes it softer than ever before.

Buy a box today... 45 cents for a box of twelve. On sale at all drug, dry goods and department stores, also through vending cabinets in rest-rooms.

SQUIBB'S Dental Cream

SENSITIVE teeth and tender, bleeding gums are often caused by acids at the Danger Line—the tiny V-shaped crevices where teeth meet gums. Food particles lodge in these crevices. They ferment and form acids which attack the teeth.

You can prevent this by using Squibb's Dental Cream, made with more than 50% of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia. It neutralizes fully all the acids at the Danger Line.

Squibb's Dental Cream cleans beautifully. It is ideal for use by children—in tender mouths—on the gums. It is harmless if swallowed. 40c a large tube.

Senate Vote on Census Bill Delayed by Argument Over Constitutional Question

Johnson Thinks Reapportionment Measure Will Go to Vote in Next Day or Two.

Washington, May 27.—(P)—The senate became involved in a constitutional argument today as it worked toward a vote on the Sackett amendment to the census and reapportionment bill, under which aliens would not be counted in the computations upon which representation in the house would be based.

The prolonged argument prevented a ballot this afternoon, but Senator Johnson, republican, California, who is in charge of the bill, expressed the belief that both the amendment and the census measure would be disposed of tomorrow or Wednesday.

The debate on the proposal of Senator Sackett, republican, Kentucky, hinged on whether the constitution meant by the word "persons" only citizens of the United States or all individuals living within its boundaries. Some senators contended the constitutional provision for representation in the house by a count of all "persons, except Indians not taxed," meant that aliens had to be counted, but others held the founders had in mind only citizens.

A number of senators took the view that citizens only had a right to be counted but that the constitution meant all people by the word "persons" and therefore to adopt the Sackett amendment might mean the ultimate rejection by the supreme court of the entire census and reapportionment legislation.

Reed of Same View.
Taking this view was Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, who said he wanted to vote for the amendment, but believed it would be unconstitutional.

The word "persons" as provided by the constitution as a basis for apportionment, he said, should be taken in its literal sense and not as an accidental use of the word by the writers of the document.

Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, declared he would vote against the bill because he believed it was an unconstitutional delegation of power to the president.

A bitter denunciation of the amendment was delivered by Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, who said it was merely saying to the immigrants: "We have grown rich now and don't need you any more to toil for us to make this country great."

And of Legislation.
"If this amendment is adopted," he warned, "it will mean the end of reapportionment legislation in this session."

The amendment was supported by Senators Capper and Allen, republican, Kansas, who asserted that the founders had no intention of writing so strict a provision that it could not be interpreted in a broad way in later years.

Senators Borah, republican, Idaho, and Walsh, democrat, Montana, contended that the amendment was equitable but without a constitutional amendment, the word "persons" would have to be construed as meaning all people.

Senators McKellar and Tyson, democrats, Tennessee, contended it was not the intention of the founders to enumerate aliens.

Senator Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, opposing the amendment, declared that apportionment laid down by the constitution was designed for protection of the states and advancement of those who live within the states. Senator Barkley, democrat, Kentucky, said that it was entirely out of keeping with American principles to include aliens in the count for representation in congress.

TEACHERS' COLLEGE EXERCISES CLOSE WITH ADDRESS

Athens, Ga., May 27.—(P)—Dr. E. L. Hill, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Athens, delivered the literary address at the closing exercise this morning of the academy of the Georgia State Teachers' college.

Commencement will be held Wednesday, the Rev. Louis D. Newton, of Atlanta, delivering the address. Sixty-one students will be awarded degrees and more than 200 members of the sophomore class will be given teachers' certificates.

LEGION TO THROW POPPY ANCHOR INTO ATLANTIC

Savannah, Ga., May 27.—(P)—An anchor made of poppies, symbolical of French battlefields, will be cast into the ocean off Tybee Thursday by Chatham post No. 26 of the American Legion in honor of the World War dead.

The memorial, sent here by Miss Moina Michael, of Athens, will be borne out to sea aboard the United States coast guard cutter Yamacraw by a committee of six or seven officers of the post. The cutter was made available by request of the legion.

TENTH ANNUAL KINDERGARTEN EXERCISES TODAY

Barnesville, May 27.—(Special).—Tenth annual kindergarten exercises of Barnesville will be held Tuesday afternoon at the auditorium. Miss Mary Wooten has charge of the exercises and will be assisted by a number of authorities all over the state as an expert in this line.

The members of her class who will participate in her commencement and graduation exercises are as follows: Willie Hunt Summers, Carolyn Bush, Margaret Bush, Geraldine Liffey, Joanne Pratt, Marian Frances Burns, Billy Faircloth, Jimmie Cason, Jim Martin, Harvey Kennedy, Henry Weisbram, Buster Summers, Billy Zellmer, and Edward Fish. Friday was class day for the kindergarten children. They were entertained at a picnic in the American Legion pool. Helen Brookshire, Callie and Henrietta Daniel and Rebecca Smith were guests also of the kindergarten department.

SHANGHAI CLUBS GETTING TOO GAY, ARE BEING CLOSED

Shanghai, China, May 27.—(P)—Shanghai's international settlements, widely known for the sophistication and variety of its night life, is threatened with loss of much, if not all, of its cosmopolitan brilliance.

There is a movement in the municipal council of the settlement for closing down many of Shanghai's better known gambling places and "sporting clubs" on the settlement territory, particularly greyhound racing parks.

"There is entirely too much gambling going on within the settlement and Shanghai is gaining a bad name internationally," declared one member of the council today.

Fireman Makes Long Bicycle Trip On Trophy Quest

Eight thousand miles on a bicycle during the last five months!

That's the attainment of Leslie E. Seaward, 36-year-old Savannah fireman, who is seeking a valuable trophy offered annually by the Country Road Club of America to the cyclist covering the greatest distance in the 12-month period.

Seaward was a visitor to the Constitution editorial rooms Monday night, en route to his home city from Louisville, Ky., where he "pedaled" to witness the 55th running of the Kentucky derby.

Because of heavy rains, it was necessary for the rider to abandon his bicycle in Chattanooga Sunday and continue his journey to Savannah by train. As is his custom he spent the night Sunday night in Atlanta at fire headquarters, as guest of local firefighters.

Leaving Louisville several days after the derby, the Savannahian rode to Indianapolis, where he renewed acquaintance with Ralph Delama, famous racing driver, who is in the Indiana city getting in shape for the coming spring classic there.

From Indianapolis he went to Nashville, then to Chattanooga, and to Atlanta. He left here at 9:40 o'clock Monday night for Savannah.

SIXTH DISTRICT SUMMER SCHOOL BEGINS JUNE 10

Barnesville, May 27.—(Special).—Professor T. O. Galloway, principal of the sixth district summer school, announces that the school will open June 10 and last through July 13. From all indications a record attendance will be registered this summer. This school is under the supervision of the state department of education. Teachers can get their certificates renewed by attending the summer school. The following instructors have been selected: T. O. Galloway, Van Fletcher, Mrs. H. B. Carter, Miss Hattie George, Mrs. J. M. Starr, Mrs. O. J. Holliman and Miss Mary Jane Parker.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

A DIVING FAMILY.
By Thornton W. Burgess.
Each has his own peculiar art, Which fits him best to do his part. —Old Mother Nature.

The six babies of Mrs. Grebe had climbed up on her back and were early age what they must know when they grew up. Now these babies of mine are no more afraid under water than they are above water. If I couldn't carry them with me under water, what chance would they have to live to grow up?

Peter shook his head. "I don't know," said he. "They certainly are most surprising babies. I never was more surprised in my life. It is certainly very nice for them. Do you always carry them that way under water when you dive?"

The eyes of Mrs. Grebe twinkled. "Not always just that way," said she. "Perhaps some day I'll show you how I take them another way. I see Dipper over there now and I really think he ought to have a look at his children. Good-by, Peter."

Again she dove and when she came der the sun would she do with those babies? I think I'll ask her."

So, when Mrs. Grebe was near enough, Peter did ask her. "Supposing, Mrs. Grebe," said he, "danger should suddenly appear, what would you do with those babies?"

"Take them with me out of harm's way," replied Mrs. Grebe promptly. "But you couldn't do that!" cried Peter.

"What is the reason I couldn't?" demanded Mrs. Grebe.

"This was too much for Peter. 'Well, I don't see how you could,' said he rather lamely.

Mrs. Grebe chuckled. "It's the easiest thing in the world," said she. She glanced over her shoulder. All the babies were hidden under the feathers. She looked over at Peter. "Then, without a word, she dove in that sudden way a Grebe has. Peter gasped. He wondered what would happen to those babies. A moment later he saw Mrs. Grebe come up on the other side of the Smiling Pool. She swam back to where Peter was. "Where are your babies?" gasped Peter.

First one little head, and then another appeared, as if in answer to Peter's question. The babies did not seem at all surprised at what had happened.

"You take them with you all that distance under water?" demanded Peter.

"Certainly," replied Mrs. Grebe. "But—but—" Peter didn't know what to say. It seemed to him that this was the most remarkable family he had ever seen. It was just as if Mrs. Grebe had pockets and had carried her babies in those pockets while she swam under water. She chuckled up, she was right beside Dipper. Almost at once the babies slid from her back and began swimming around her.

OLD THOMASVILLE CITY HOSPITAL ATTACKED BY FIRE

Thomasville, Ga., May 27.—(Special).—The Old Thomasville city hospital, built a score of years ago, caught on fire at 4:25 o'clock Sunday morning. The fire was stubborn and the city department did not get it extinguished until almost 9 o'clock. The building was being dismantled, to make way for a large modern $100,000 apartment house, work of tearing it down having started only two days prior to the fire. It is understood that the structure was insured for approximately $20,000.

SMALLPOX CASES ON GERMAN LINER PROVE CHICKEN POX

New York, May 27.—(P)—Three cases first diagnosed as smallpox on the incoming North German Lloyd liner Dresden today were later pronounced by public health service officials to be nothing more serious than chicken pox.

Ship's doctors first diagnosed the illness, suffered by a father, mother and child in the third class, as smallpox and passengers and crew were immediately vaccinated.

When the Dresden reached quarantine doctors of the public health service, notified of the situation by the line, boarded the ship and held it several hours. After a thorough examination, however, the liner was permitted to proceed to its dock.

BRITISH ELECTION EXPECTED TO BE QUIET

London, May 27.—(P)—To all present appearances the comparative calmness which has characterized the general elections campaign up to today will continue to the end. No surprises are expected from the final vote.

Leaders of the different parties began to issue their final appeals and reminders to the electorate. This is considered especially important this year as the idea has gotten abroad that the voters have grown apathetic through the dullness of the campaign.

There will be fewer results of the polling announced Thursday night than has been customary on account of the later hour at which the polls will close in most constituencies. This is especially true in urban areas where the hour for the close of the polls has been moved from 8 until 9 p. m.

Results announced Thursday will include no less than 38 members of the government and among them nine cabinet ministers, including Sir Austen Chamberlain.

The fate of some prominent labor and liberal leaders, including Arthur Henderson, J. R. Clynes and Sir Herbert Samuel, also will be announced the same night.

For the important leaders, such as Premier Baldwin, former Premiers Ramsay MacDonald and David Lloyd George, Winston Churchill and Philip Snowden, the public must wait until Friday to learn their fate.

A compilation of election statistics shows there are 492 seats in England, 36 in Wales and Monmouth, 74 in Scotland and 13 in northern Ireland. The minimum required for any party to win the election, without counting the speaker, is 308.

By-elections since 1924 have on the whole gone against the government. 511 members of the prorogued parliament of 615 seats are running again.

These Symptoms Often Go Away Following the Use of Thedford's Black-Draught.

Winston-Salem, N. C.—"I have been using Thedford's Black-Draught for twenty-five years," says Mrs. Lydia E. Kerley, of 519 West Seventh Street, this city. "I try never to be without it in my home, because I find that a pinch will ease the headache."

"I take Black-Draught when I am bilious or have indigestion. I have found that much of the trouble of this kind comes from constipation. Black-Draught is the best medicine I have ever found to prevent it."

"It is the only medicine I can take and keep on with my work."

"One of my children was troubled with bad breath, and I gave her Black-Draught. She got over it right away."

"I favor Black-Draught, because it seems to drive the poison out of the system in a natural way."

When you take Thedford's Black-Draught, the digestive organs are helped in a healthful, natural way, and normal elimination is restored without the sickening effects that characterize the use of powerful mineral drugs.

Stribling To Referee Fuente-Wine Bout at Spiller's Tonight

MAX ABELSON
PRESENTS FIRST
OUTDOOR SHOW

Two Ten-Round Bouts
Top Card—Park Flood-Lighted.

Outdoor Card For Tonight

Tony Fuente vs. Frankie Wine, 10 rounds.
Battling Finch vs. Big Boy Blackstock, 10 rounds.
Spreuer Carter vs. Bobby Dugan, 6 rounds.
Seth O'Hara vs. Paul Martin, 4 rounds.
Frankie Allen vs. Young Treadwell, 4 rounds.

W. L. (Young) Stribling will be referee in the final ten-round heavyweight boxing bout on the first outdoor card of the season tonight at Spiller's field. This was announced yesterday afternoon by Max Abelson, matchmaker, as he concluded plans for entertaining an imposing crowd at his inaugural show.

Stribling will fight here later in the season against a heavyweight contender of some reputation, Abelson added. The show tonight is the first of a series of all fresco fight nights, featuring well-known heavyweights and the best Atlanta talent available.

Tony Fuente, the Mexican mauler, who was a sparring partner in the Stribling camp at Miami Beach, fights Frankie Wine of Montana, in the final 10-round bout. Stribling will not render the decision; he will be assisted by judges at the ringside.

In the other 10-round bout, Battling Finch and Big Boy Blackstock, two Georgia heavies, will clash. A six-rounder and two four-round fights will open the show.

The grandstand has been wired for electric lights and a battery of flood lights will illuminate the ring, which will be pitched back of home plate. Every seat in the grandstand will give a clear view of the ring.

Fuente has been working out at the Forsyth street gymnasium for several days and has created quite a following here. Wine was scheduled to fight a short workout. The other principals are all on the ground. Matchmaker Abelson says, and the program will be of his advertised.

The body punching ability of Fuente and the strong right hand attack of Wine make them ideal opponents to furnish a real hustling mill in the final event. Battling Finch has had five fights in Madison Square Garden and is favored by the rise to win his last with Big Boy Blackstock.

Andre Routis Wins by Kayo

Baltimore, May 27.—(AP)—Andre Routis, of France, featherweight champion of the world, scored a technical knockout over Buster Brown, of Baltimore, in the third round of their title bout shortly after the start of the round, after Brown had been knocked down three times. Routis weighed 125 1/2 and Brown 125 pounds.

The crowd took the action of Brown's seconds in a riotous fashion, and for a time assumed a threatening attitude. Police who surrounded the ringside prevented any disturbance.

Throughout the short battle, the crowd had maintained a flow of invective against Referee Harry Ertle, who to its mind was permitting the Frenchman to foul Brown.

Brown started the fight with aggressiveness and had made a good showing during the first round and had continued through the second, carrying the fight to the champion, who kept clinching.

The third round started as had the others, with Brown taking charge of the aggressiveness. He went down for a count of one early in the round and again a few seconds later, taking a count of eight before getting to his feet to rush the champion. When he went down the third time from a blow to the body, his handlers tossed the towel into the ring.

Grinnell Co. Team Defeats Seaboard

With Lewis on the mound and in his usual form, the Grinnell Company nine defeated the Seaboard Railway team at the circus ground diamond on Highland avenue. The score was 7-2.

Lewis, who has won four games out of as many starts this season, let the Railway boys down with six scattered hits. He also scored two of his ten runs.

Owens, who pitched for Seaboard, was nipped for 12 safe blows. Seaboard... 100 000 100—2 6 3 Grinnell... 200 102 02—0 3 3

Bob Baugh Enters British Amateur

London, May 27.—(AP)—In addition to Americans entered from clubs in the United States for the British amateur golf championship, several are entered under the colors of British clubs. This class includes Bob Baugh, former University of Alabama star, the first American to captain an Oxford University golf team; Douglas Grant, formerly of California, who has won many English tournaments; and Robert Sweeney Young, entered from the Prince's Club.

Constitution Adds Sports Feature

One of the greatest sports cartoonists and sports authorities is Robert Edgren. The Atlanta Constitution has contracted for an amplification of the Edgren service in his new series of sports cartoons as "Miracles of Sports." We feel sure that this will prove one of the most interesting features the Constitution has ever had. The first of the series appears today.

Back to the Road.

W. L. Stribling II, well-known airplane pilot, has decided to re-enter the boxing game.

Once more attired in the panoply of his old calling as a disarranger of facial contours, with Pa and Ma in tow, he will resume his crusades in the hinterlands.

Not since he fought Jack Sharkey in the lee of the palms at Miami Beach has Young Stribling engaged in any serious boxing.

W. L. went into drydock for repairs to teeth, nerves, tonsils and adenoids. He flew his plane here and there and yonder; he qualified for army commissions, made forced landings, refereed fights and had a big time generally.

New Policy Flaps.

While W. L. rested from his bout of mashing men, his father, manager, busied himself hunting for a big shot. The new Stribling policy was to be a few big fights.

No more touring on the bowl-and-pitcher circuit. The old days were over. There was a trip to Europe in sight and a fight in Madison Square Garden and all that.

The new policy has been abandoned. "Big shots" come few and far between. Time hangs heavy on the hands.

The Old Racket.

Whether it is the call of the open road and the dingy fight club and the gay, irresponsible business of bowling over third raters for a pound—or whether the family bank balance needs bolstering—the Striblings are going back to work.

Jack McAuliffe at Fort Worth, Texas; another guy—anybody—at Waco; Babe Hunt, at Wichita; Jack Lee, at Flint, Mich.; that's the booking for June.

So away they'll go—Pa and Ma and W. L.—packing their bags for an early morning train, greeting hotel clerks as old friends, checking the gate as the crowds file into the region hall, knocking the opposition to sleep and catching a midnight train for the next stop.

Why Scoff?

The modern generation of boxing men scoff at their policy. Sport writers hook at it. But the Striblings thrive on it and draw their crowds everywhere.

W. L. gets sleek and sassy fighting once a week and doing no particular training between fights. He has the public pay for his gymnasium workouts if you take it that way.

One of these days they are going to need a substitute fighter for a big event in the Garden and they will send out a wire for W. L. to come in and go on—and he will step into the ring with no gym grind behind him and knock over an important blow.

Macon's Big Day.

J. D. Blair, president of the Macon baseball association, has invited sports writers all over the south-east to be present at the unveiling, of dedication, or consecration of Macon's new baseball plant June 13.

The field was designed partly with the expert advice of a Mr. Napoleon Rucker, of Roswell, Ga., who sort of represents the interests of the Brooklyn National League club, owner of the franchise.

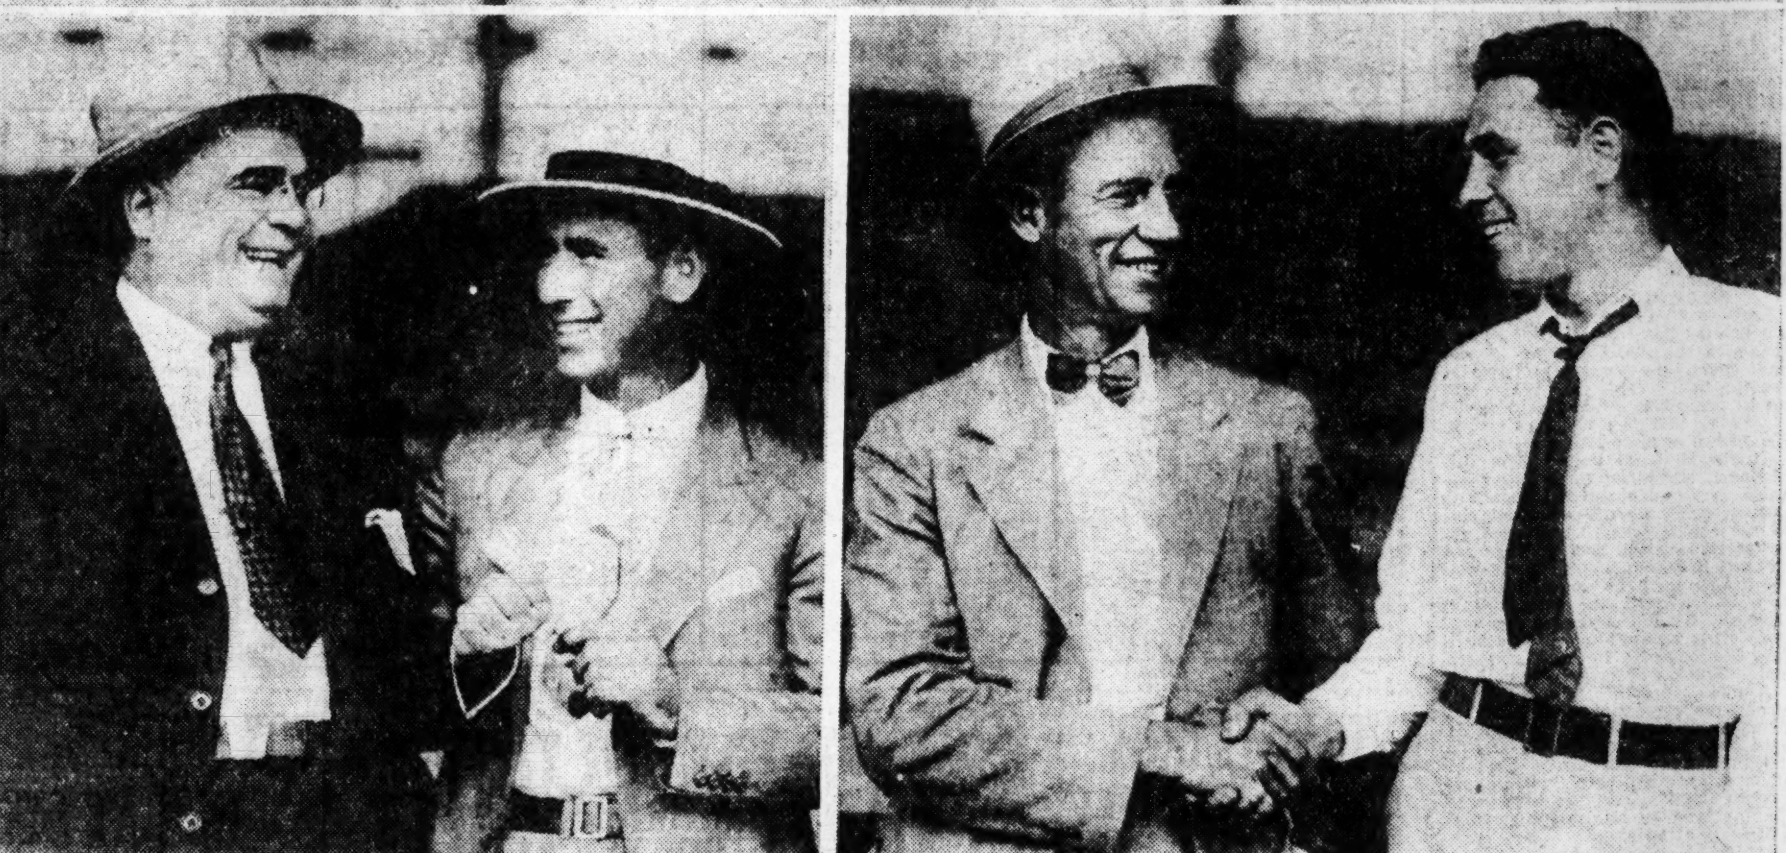

Judge Landis will be there and Macon will put on a real party with a banquet at the end. Those who want that the minor leagues are running out their string will be surprised to see that the Macon enterprise is flourishing and hard times nowhere to be seen.

Art in Tickets.

One of the souvenir tickets for the Yale-Georgia game in Athens has been received at this desk. It is a handsomely engraved document and the stub will be worth preserving as a memento of the game.

OLSEN-FOR-BURRUS DEAL FAILS

Notables Call at Rain-Swept Spiller Field

Dick Burrus, the fighting fool of the 1924 Cracker team, called at Spiller field yesterday morning in the midst of the rainstorm. He conferred with R. J. Spiller over a job as first sacker; and Spiller has taken the matter up with the Houston Texas league club where Burrus last worked. The Cracker owner, extreme left, is shown above offering Burrus a fifty cent piece as down payment on a contract. In the right panel, Wilbur Good is shown welcoming his new outfielder, Bob Parham, who just signed a Cracker contract.

CRACKER CLUB OFFERED 1924 STAR FOR CASH

Infielder Offered Club—Parham May Not Play Today.

By Ralph McGill.
Mr. Fred N. Ankenman wired hastily, "No, thank you," Monday afternoon.

Mr. R. J. Spiller, of the Atlanta Baseball Club, had just offered Mr. Fred N. Ankenman, of the Houston Baseball Club, a pitcher named Art Olsen in exchange for a first baseman named Richard Burrus.

"My, my," said Mr. Ankenman to his secretary, "what these baseball people won't try to do to one is a caution."

Whereupon Mr. Ankenman wired back and offered to sell for a figure less than $25,000.

Dick Burrus rode the crest of a rainstorm into Spiller's field Monday about noon. He was seeking for a job. Mr. Spiller wired down to Houston. He offered Art Olsen.

You've already read the answer. Burrus is now on the Houston club's suspended list for failure to report to Danville. Houston invested $4,000 in Jack Wright, a Boston product, and he is now in the line-up in Dick Burrus' place. They said unkind things out there about Dick Burrus.

But not nearly as unkind as Dick Burrus had to say about the Texas league and Houston in general.

HIS PLAIN.
"It is the worst league I ever played in," the former Cracker told his former employer, Mr. R. J. Spiller. "They had about 25 people out to the games in Texas and they were hissing the ball players right off the field."

Dick Burrus comes with the power of attorney to make a deal for himself—if the deal meets with the approval of Mr. Ankenman.

The Cardinals have about $5,000 invested in Dick Burrus. The Houston Buffaloes are just one of the cardinal filling stations that have been erected here and yonder over the base ball terrain.

THEIR PRICE.
They are willing to dispose of him outright for less than half that amount. Or so they say. He batted about .200 for the Buffaloes. Dick Burrus laughs at it. "I never hit in the first month," he said.

Cracker officials were not definite. They let it be known that they liked Mike Martin, a pitcher who had played right well and were not liking any unusual capers to get Dick Burrus.

There seems to be some uncertainty about Mike Martin, the first baseman obtained by the Cracker from Newark. One Cracker official says he still belonged to Newark and was here on option. Another said he had been purchased by the Cardinals. Ho, hum. Maybe it was two other fellows. At any rate he was not mentioned in the negotiations set in motion between Houston and Dallas.

TOO MANY PLAYERS.
R. J. Spiller and Wilbur Good were winning chances Monday afternoon when the double-header with the Vols was rained out. They were dejected the old woman who lived in a baseball shop and had so many ball players on the bench that she had to throw some away.

The upshot of it was that when darkness fell about the city Monday night the general opinion of the baseball minds was that Bob Parham would not be in the ball games for a few days, probably until about Friday. This opinion, however, is subject to change without notice.

BENCHES BOB.
Wilbur Good very sanely decided that it would not be treating the Tech outfielder, who signed a contract Saturday, at all fairly to toss him into the lineup immediately. It is Good's idea that he will do better in the baseball business if he is permitted to sit around on the bench for a few days and absorb some of the atmosphere.

He also has Frankie Zoeller on his mind. Not only has the outfield situation got the Cracker skipper slightly muddled but the pitching staff has joined in and has him winging.

Joe Kiefer, who has been out of the game since the first week of the season with an injured back, is ready to work again. Don Brennan, the pitcher sent down by Newark, is also here and ready to go. Chief Wilkins, the thrower obtained from Shreveport a week ago, looked good in a couple of games and blew up in a third.

PITCHERS DOUBTFUL.
Wilbur Good has done some serious thinking on this subject and lets get the situation well in hand. He observes, very smartly, that there is a difference between being ready to pitch and pitching. There is a difference between being ready to pitch and pitching. There is a difference between being ready to pitch and pitching. There is a difference between being ready to pitch and pitching.

Those reasons caused him to carry over the business of Monday. He did not cut out the squad at all. Some time today he expects to get busy with it and list all the new men he wants and send the others on their way.

There is evidently a quick deal to be made or passed up in the Burrus matter. All indications are that the Cracker will either complete the deal or let it go entirely sometime today.

Spitball Pitchers Still Worry Hitters

Five Veteran "Spitter" Artists Going Strong—Disprove Theory Moist Delivery Ruins Arm.

By Ralph McGill.
Maybe baseball will develop into a haven for old men after all. The veterans seem to be doing right well, especially the pitchers and, more especially still, the old men who throw the spit ball.

There are five of them still going along, tossing the moist ball with there and making the opposition very uncomfortable indeed with it all. Jack Quinn, Urban Faber, Burleigh Grimes, Clarence Mitchell and Bill Doak are still winning games—with the spitball.

It was 20 years ago, or thereabouts, that Eddie Strickland mastered the spitball. Control was the difficult thing about the new delivery.

The word went around that the spitball would ruin the young pitcher's arm—that it was the severe strain on the muscles and the tendons—that a pitcher's life was short enough at best but that a spitball pitcher's arm was sure to fade out in a season or so.

Youngsters dropped the pitch but some of the more stubborn kept after it and mastered the control. The spitball—most difficult of all pitches to hit.

Baseball outlawed the spitball in 1920 when the reform wave swept the game. It was outlawed along with the emery ball, the shine ball and all other freak deliveries.

LIST Dwindles.
Only those registered as spitball pitchers in 1920 were allowed to retain that delivery. There were seven of them left. By 1922, just two years later, the list was reduced to ten. It wasn't the arms that put them out—some retired, one or two were banished from baseball by Landis' decree, still another one or two played out—arms, legs, control—all gone.

That original group of 17 was composed of the following men: Doak, Cardinals; Douglas, Giants; Fillingim, Braves; Faber, Reds; Gooden, Cardinals; Grimes, Brooklyn; Mitchell, Brooklyn; Rudolph, Braves; Ayers, Senators; Caldwell, Yankees; Coveleskie, Indians; Faber, White Sox; Leonard, Red Sox; Quinn, Yankees; Russell, Red Sox; Shocker, Browns; and Sutherland, Browns.

There are five left of that group now that the ninth season has come around since the spitball was banned. Any other group of pitchers would show a corresponding loss. It is evident that the spitball doesn't wear away the arm muscles any more than the ordinary pitch despite the sudden jerks the arm is subjected to.

All but Bill Doak are taking their regular turn on the mound. Quinn is 44 years—or older—he won't tell his age. Faber is 41. Bill Doak is 38 or 40. All of them are around those figures.

Rajah Takes Top Place in Big Six As Rivals Rest

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Combination of a hitting spree by Rogers Hornsby and an off day in the American league schedule has given the Big Six a new leader. While the three American league members were enjoying a day of rest, yesterday the Rajah, busied himself by pounding out three hits in five times at bat against Cincinnati and displacing Lou Gehrig from the top rung.

His average shot up 10 points to .331, while Lou remained at .327. Paul Waner also did a good batting job, hitting safely twice in three attempts to gain a mark of .313.

G. M. A. HONORS HER ATHLETES

Winners of Letters Presented With Awards at Special Meeting.

Georgia Military academy athletes were awarded their certificates Monday morning in a special meeting of the cadet corps devoted to the men who had played on the academy teams.

The awards were made in the large assembly hall of the school and was attended by the entire cadet corps and their friends and relatives here for the commencement exercises.

Norman Hackney, a cadet from Durham, N. C., was awarded the medal for being the most valuable athlete in the corps. He won his letter in three sports and was a leader in scholastic work and other school activities. The award was not based on athletic skill alone.

Leaders in track were awarded special medals. Robert Joerg, of Fort McPherson, was the best track man in the corps with Tom Shapard, of Griffin, Ga., and Tom Walker, of Miami, Fla., tied for second place. They were each awarded individual medals.

The medals and the certificates in six sports were presented by Ralph McGill, of The Constitution sports staff.

Grover Middlebrook, president of the Atlanta Athletic Association, presented the University of Georgia, presented a cup offered the winner of the basketball championship of the prep association. G. M. A.'s team was an easy winner. The cup is to be won three times before it becomes the permanent possession of any school. The victories need not be in succession.

The following men were awarded athletic letter certificates:
Norman Hackney, Durham, N. C.; Tom Shapard, Griffin, Ga.; George Penger, Homerville, Ga.; Robert Joerg, Fort McPherson, N. C.; Robert Pittman, Apopka, Fla.; Cecil Elliott, Miami, Fla.; Rene de Lara, Havana, Cuba; Leroy Rich, Palm Bay, Fla.; Robert Pittman, Apopka, Fla.; Charles Jennings, Charlotte, N. Tech High, Gordon Play For Title

Prep Baseball Teams Meet Friday, Saturday for G. I. A. A. Championship.

For the third time this year the Tech High Smithies will meet Gordon institute, of Barnesville, in a state championship game, when the teams meet in a two-game series at Barnesville Friday and Saturday for the G. I. A. A. baseball title. Earlier in the season Gordon lost the G. I. A. A. football championship to the Tech gridgers, and was defeated in the G. I. A. A. basketball tournament by Tech High in the second round.

Coach John Somers, of Gordon, bases his claim for the title on the fact that his team has played and beaten more members of the association than any other team, while Tech High advances similar claims, having played five G. I. A. A. teams and beaten them all, including the Gordon nine, 14-8, earlier in the season. Tech High has played 15 games and lost only one, while Gordon has played 17 and lost three. Gordon claims to have beaten teams that trimmed the Smithies, Hoy's High having been beaten by Gordon twice in fairly close games, while Tech High lost to the Hurricane once 1-0 and swamped it once, 17-3.

The games will be played under the auspices of the Leon Martin post of the American Legion of Barnesville, and a large crowd is expected to witness the series for high honors in Georgia prep baseball.

The entire Gordon team is a starting aggregation, with Captain "Indy" Patrick leading the attack, backed by Parks, Barrentine and Owens, each shining lights on the diamond. Tech High's team is to be led by "Blackie" Whitley, captain and first baseman, while Everett, Mable, English and Chambers will do the mound work. Hammond, Mott, Hutt, Brown and Davenport will be the big shots at the plate.

On Wednesday of this week the Smithies go to Athens to battle Athens High for the unofficial state high school championship, and should they defeat the Athens boys they will have an excellent claim to the high school title of the south, and if they defeat the junior college team at Gordon their claim will be hardly questioned. They will play Athens High only one game, but added to their string of other victories should they win it, will give the Smithies added prestige in prep circles, as Athens High boasts a very strong team.

T. H. S., Athens Play Wednesday.
Athens, May 27.—Two of the best prep baseball teams in Dixie will meet here Wednesday afternoon to decide the southern championship when the Tech High Smithies and the Red and White of Athens High clash on Canfield field.

The bringing together of these two outstanding prep baseball nines for the first time was decided when Dr. Welford Brown, local coach, accepted Tech High's challenge to the southern championship.

Both teams boast of almost perfect records this season and it is not thought that there is any other team in Dixie with records to equal them. They have played outstanding nines in the Empire State, besides a few opponents outside the Georgia boundary.

Athens High has wins over G. M. A. League Grove, Riverdale, Madison A. & M., Clarksville A. & M., Georgia freshmen, and several other outstanding teams, while the Smithies have chalked up wins over G. M. A. all the Atlanta prep teams they have played. Lanier High, Riverside, Monroe A. & M. and several others.

"Lefty" Hamilton Coach Brown has one of the best high school throwers ever seen in action in Athens, and needless to say he will be used in the battle against the Atlantics, the last game of his high school career.

Although their defensive is one of their strongest aids in winning games, the Red and White hitting has been one of the features of their showing. In Moorhead, catcher Barrett, short: tennis star, was forced to cancel her scheduled participation in the championships this week when she became ill here.

Rube and Red Pitch Today

Wilbur Good, Cracker manager, announced Monday afternoon that he would use Red Othman and Rube Robinson in the double-header with the Vols this afternoon if the weather permitted. If it is not a good day other pitchers will start. The first game will be called at 2:30 o'clock. It is ladies' day.

Tech High Nine Receives Trophy

In reward for winning the city prep baseball championship for the 1929 season, the Tech High Smithies were presented with a large silver cup Monday morning by C. H. Walthour, of Walthour and Hood. Gold baseballs were also given to the 15 team members.

Walthour complimented the Tech High team on its fine record in winning all league games except one, and wished them further success in the games they will play for the G. I. A. A. title. Coach Gabe Tolbert was highly complimented by Walthour and W. O. Cheney, principal of Tech High, for turning out championship teams in football, basketball and baseball this year.

Captain "Blackie" Whitley received the cup for the team and thanked Walthour for it. Alternate Captain "Runt" Chandler also said a few words of appreciation in behalf of the team.

The following members of the championship team were presented gold baseballs: "Blackie" Whitley, "Runt" Chandler, Jake Morris, Billie Davenport, Leinweber, "Ginny" Brown, "Red" Hutt, "Buster" Mott, Capes, Reid Craven, "Heavy" Hammond, Neville Everett, John Mable, John Chambers, Jack English.

Joe Dundee Signs To Defend Title

Detroit, May 27.—(AP)—Floyd Fitzsimmons, boxing promoter, announced today he had concluded arrangements with Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, to defend his welterweight title here July 11 against Jackie Fields, of Los Angeles. Dundee is guaranteed $50,000 for the bout, which will go 15 rounds.

CHICAGO TAKES FISTIC SPOT

Mandell Bout Saves Week's Card From Being Complete Flop.

New York, May 27.—(AP)—Chicago comes back to the fistic limelight this week with Sammy Mandell, light-weight champion in the starring role. Were it not for the Mandell-Kaplan non-title match with Louis Kid Kaplan, former featherweight champion, at Mills stadium, Chicago, this Friday night, the week's national fistic card could go down on the books almost as a dead loss. Even the Mandell-Kaplan fight, which was expected to stir the cash customers into a frenzy, although it is the best offering of the week.

Musky Callahan is defending his more or less synthetic junior welterweight crown against Dummy Mahan at Los Angeles on Tuesday. Leo Lomski, one of the leading light-heavyweight contenders, also has picked the far west for his first start in some time. Leo faces Vase Okun, of New York, in a ten-rounder at Portland on Tuesday.

Tuesday—At Cleveland, Buck Lavaca, Syracuse, vs. Vince Dundee, Baltimore, welterweights, 10 rounds.
Wednesday—At Akron, Eddie Anderson, Wyoming, vs. Harry Kid Brown, Philadelphia, welterweights, 10 rounds; at Oakland, Jack Malone, St. Paul, vs. Wilson Yarb, Cleveland, middleweights, 10 rounds.
Friday—At Hollywood, Tim Rothrock, Kansas City, vs. Les Kennedy, New York, welterweights, 10 rounds; at Chicago, Rayman vs. Ted Ross, Chicago, middleweights, 10 rounds; Rodie Allen, Kansas City, vs. Tony Isagouri, Des Moines, eight rounds.

GADSDEN WINS, 5-4.

Carrollton, Ga., May 27.—Carrollton defeated Gadsden, 5 to 4, in a game called at the end of the seventh inning on account of rain here today. Gadsden bunched five runs in the third inning to score four runs. The champs were greatly aided in their scoring by Gadsden's pitcher, Elks, who pitched a perfect game. Eight of the sixteen hits in the game were doubles.

Chicago, May 28.—(AP)—Hurried by a fast increasing flood of selling, the wheat market went headlong below $1.00 a bushel today, and after a brief recovery, it tumbled again.

Canadian rains that had been expected to bring a late season of wheat in Canada, and that pointed to a continuance of record-breaking supplies the world over, were largely responsible.

Not only wheat, but corn, oats and rye reached new low levels. May wheat, the bottommost since October, 1915.

Closing quotations on wheat were at the day's lowest point, 2 1/2 to 2 3/4 at 3c under Saturday's finish.

Corn closed 2 1/8 to 2 5/8 down, oats 5 1/4 to 5 7/8 off, rye 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 down, and provisions unchanged to a seaboard of 10c.

Right from the outset today, wheat began to swing lower. For a brief interval after touching $1.00 a bushel, the market showed considerable resistance, but it was not long before it proved again overpowered, and the downward course of values was practically unimpeded during the whole remainder of the day, finishing with May wheat at 98 5/8 cents.

This, this year's lowest price, is a record for the wheat market since 1915.

Chicago deliveries of wheat have also been under $1.00 for the first time since 1915.

Five years past, July wheat having flattened out as low as 96c in 1915.

Liverpool wheat quotations were lower than were looked for, and counted to some extent as a depressing influence here.

Notice was also taken that good shipping from the west was larger than of late, and that the amount of wheat on ocean passage showed nearly 100,000 bushels more than of late.

Moreover, despite today's break in prices here, European demand for wheat from North America continued light, and the domestic visible supply was still 500,000 bushels bigger than a year ago.

Corn, oats and rye went lower as a result of sympathy with wheat weakness and on account of favorable weather for corn planting.

Provisions were governed by downturns both in the value of grain and of hogs.

Rails, Government Shares Turn Heavily of Issues

For a brief interval in 1920, the repatriation situation was also credited with having some influence on bond prices, especially in the foreign list, which was noticeably soft.

Public stocks on the toboggan, convertible securities were heavy, American Telephone 4-12s led the downward procession, dipping 1 1/2 points to the new low 119 1/2 contrasted with a high of 122. American I. C. Chemicals surrendered 1 1/4 while Commercial Investment Trust 1-2s and International Telephone 4-12s sold off 5-8 and 2-3, respectively.

Offerings of rails were for the most part small and prices were whittled off because of lack of interest rather than because substantial liquidation was in progress in this group. Issues making new lows included Great Northern 7s and 4-12s, Illinois Central Refunding 4s, Missouri, Kansas & Texas Advertising 5s, prior issues and prior 4s, New York Central Refunding 5s and Consolidated 4s, Pennsylvania 4s, Texas & Pacific 5s and Union Pacific 4-12s.

Two of the Liberty bonds also touched new bottoms on liberal selling, the 3-12s and 4-12s, the first 4-12s sagged 3-4.

Industrials and utilities showed scattered price changes, but the trend was irregularly lower. Transactions in both groups, however, were small.

Foreign government bonds have lost ground generally, although French 5s and 4-12s were firm at a fraction above Saturday's close on the largest turnover in this section of the list.

A general downward and moved up 2 points.

Money market held at last week's interest, with the highest since the financial crisis of 1907. Except Dry Goods.

New York, May 27.—Cotton textile markets opened quiet with a limited demand for gray sheetings and print cloths at unchanged prices. Colored goods were quiet. Fine goods

Demand was for smaller filling-in lots. Woolen men were looking to the general meeting of the wool institute at the Roosa Hotel here tomorrow for developments of general trade interest. Calcutta burlap markets were cabled unchanged. And holders of spots and afloats were attempting to push prices five points higher. Spot raw silks were quiet and unchanged. Futures were firmer on a stronger Japan market, and China futures were lower.

Kalsomine

5-lb. Pkg. net. Wall Tint, 42¢.
This high-grade Frescoat Wall Tint comes to you fresh from the factory in solid cartons. You can buy it in this convenient 5-lb. package at prices ordinarily obtained for stale goods carried in bulk in the barrel. You have fourteen wonderful colors to select from, and it does not require an experienced person to apply. It will work equally as well in hot or warm weather. One coat will suffice except on a very stubborn job. Frescoat— "The World's Best Kalsomine or Water Color"—will not rub off. Frescoat will cover over a much more wall space than any equal quantity in dry powder of any other kalsomine.

Good Paint Costs Nothing

That looks like a queer statement—but it's true. For it is far cheaper to protect your home, outside or in, with quality paint than to let it go another year—with decay setting in.

But we said GOOD paint—and there is none Better than Peaslee-Gaulbert.

RANDALL BROTHERS INCORPORATED

Will Robbins and Kelly Ever Buy a New Car?

In a second-hand aeroplane they broke the world's endurance record that no new engine has ever been approached. In accomplishing this feat they received the acclaim of the whole world, obtained jobs for themselves in the movies, and proved our contention that a good used car has the world's record value per dollar spent. Buy one of our high-grade, guaranteed used cars instead of a cheap new one and break a record for yourself.
